GUMMY CHAT WITH AL ON A
HOT AFTERNOONGreets Visitors in Shirt Sleeves.BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
New York, July 3.—[Special.]—Al is a case of his "that would be a silly mood."Everybody wishes to catch him. The weather has turned hot. The candidate wears of endearments.
Bewitching physical endearments are being backslapped upon him by the faithful in person and verbal en-dearments are pouring in upon him by cable and telegraph.He yearns to get away.
Wants to go motorizing.
More than anything else, he yearns to motor with the missus. She has asked him silly questions. He is taking a little ride for himself.The scene is the reception room of his suite in the northwest corner of the twentieth floor of the Biltmore at Madison avenue and 43d street.
This is his New York City home and he has since he moved up from the lower end.Al in shirt sleeves.
Al is in his shirt sleeves. He is wearing dark blue trousers. His face is flushed. He is chewing a long stem cigar, which he presently lights.
It makes a hearty, hoarse "Hello, everybody!"Miss Ford, a trusty stenographer, who is in the room, says that she has been in the room for the next 29 minutes; Miss Ford's assistant, who does the same;
Mrs. Belle Moskowitz, the Jane Adams of New York and Al's most assured campaign counselor; William Donaldson of Illinois, manager of the house of representatives press gallery in Washington, who has come up to organize the press arrangements for Al's campaign, and Joseph Cohen and Joseph L. Lewis, who will carry on after Donaldson has organized.Don't Coolidge Conference.
Donaldson is brought forward and introduced. Al gives him a glance of the surprise and says:"Say! You look like George Cohan."
No man could come with a better recommendation to the governor.The governor sits. Everybody sits on the window ledge. This is a Coolidge press conference where you stand till you are ready to drop.Al takes an arm chair in front of a table on which stands a big wooden box that looks like the dispatch box at a king's council table. It is not.
It is lettered in gilt on the outside with the words "100 Coronas."Curious of Him on Wall.
The reception room is hung with two or three good etchings along with the originals of a newspaper cartoon or two that the candidate liked. A gold watch chain is pinned to a photograph of Mrs. Smith framed in silver.
On the mantelpiece are a souvenir cup and a fancy clock adorned with a gilt statuette of Al Smith.Gestures and baskets of writing papers from the faithful give the room a hasty suggestion.Al removes a pair of horn rimmed spectacles and cleans them as he sits. He is waiting for the first question. As it does not come quickly, he says, "Well, go ahead, boys. But don't ask me."That a rattle of questions—some of them silly, all of them meant to lure him into some committal.Candidates Are No Snaps.
"You expect a pretty hot campaign?""Absolutely." "I never knew one like you.""You feel physically fit for it?"
"I was to start today I'm ready to go.""You expect to get a considerable part of the female vote, don't you?""Battering." "That's a hot one!"
He looks at it with a trace of irritation. "I don't know anything about it."Agate Wipes Glasses.
He industriously resumes wiping his glasses with a fresh pocket handkerchief, of which he appears to have an inexhaustible supply on his person.
He draws them forth as a juggler extracts rabbits and bonbons from a corset. "I never knew the supply to fail him. He is one of the nearest of men." One of the reporters, George Morse of the New York Telegram, announced on page 4, column 1.NEWS SUMMARY

UNCLE SAM'S BIRTHDAY

HOP FROM ROME
FOR SO. AMERICA;
SEEK NEW RECORD(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
ROME, July 3.—Capt. Arturo Ferrarin and Maj. Carlo del Prete, holders of the world endurance record, piloting
a Fiat motorized Savoia-Marchetti hopped off from Montecelio airfield near Rome this evening at 7:50 o'clock for Brazil and Buenos Aires, if their gasoline lasts. The flight is under the auspices of the Italian military aviation service.The daring Italian pilots hope to beat in a straight line flight the record they set in a closed circuit on June 2, when they remained in the air 58 hours 43 minutes.The distance from Rome to Brazil is figured at 4,635 miles, and the accomplishment of this feat will smash the present long distance record of Clarence Chamberlain and Charles Levine who flew 3,776 miles from New York to Germany.Both Police Commissioner Warren and Inspector Coughlin are said to be determined to check the present murder "wave" before it goes any further. Since the Baumes laws went into effect, New York has been fairly free from major crimes, and police fear the recurrence of such crimes will mean criticism that New York streets are unsafe.If the recent crimes mean that gangsters driven out of Chicago are introducing Chicago methods of private gang warfare here, new police methods probably will be devised to meet the attack. It is recognized that Chicago gunmen operating here in defiance of the Baumes laws, with their severe penalties, must be of the most desperate type and need to be handled without gloves.Although police have not linked the recent murders to each other or to the Chicago gangs, yet they have been similar in the peculiar cold brutality with which they have been committed, in the nature of the "rackets" in which the victims were engaged and in the freedom with which the murderers have taken the law into their own hands.Shot in Back of Head.
Senter's murder may have been the introduction of the machine gun, long in use in Chicago, into New York gangdom. Dr. Emanuel E. Martin, assistant medical examiner, said Senter had been hit by five bullets in the head, and by two bullets in the back, and that he could not say whether they were pistol or machine gun bullets. Senter also had been beaten and kicked in the face.Killed in Philadelphia.
Philadelphia, Pa., July 3.—[Special.]
—Spraying a wide area of sidewalk in South Philadelphia with automatic shotgun pellets, gangsters reopened their guerrilla warfare today, killing one man and wounding three. George Catania stood conversing with an acquaintance; the gunman beckoned him toward the car. As he started to compliment Catania on his face with his bullet in his body. A second volley followed, but this passed over Catania's body and added three innocent bystanders to the casualty list.New York Too
Has Its Gang Murders, Etc.New York, July 3.—[Special.]—The recent series of gang murders was increased today by the shooting of James "Hick" Senter, whose body was found in a sand pit in Brooklyn.
No clues to the identity of the murderers or the motive for the crime were found.The police likewise failed to make any arrests in the murders of Frank Uale, Chicago gang leader, shot in his automobile on a Brooklyn street last Sunday; of Benjamin Kanowitz, alleged bootlegger, killed by a bomb in his automobile in front of his home last Sunday, and of Edwin C. Jerge, fake policeman and federal agent, shot
in his automobile two weeks ago.Fear Criticism.

FEAR YOUTH AND
GIRL DROWNEDCounty highway and Maywood police were searching the Des Plaines river near North avenue early this morning for the bodies of a young couple who, it was feared, had been drowned when their rowboat capsized.The missing couple are Lemuel Eddy, 20, a Northwestern university student, who lives at the Oak Park Y. M. C. A.,
and Eloise Root, 19, residing in the vicinity of Ridgeland avenue and Lake street, Oak Park. Carl Rutledge, 19, of 27 North Oak Park avenue, reported the accident to the police. He said that he, Eddy, Miss Root and Miss Grace Bertoline, 21, of 6518 Monticello avenue, had gone boating on the river last evening.In the party became hilarious, he believed, and in midstream the boat turned over.
Rutledge and his companion, Grace, swam to safety. When they looked for the others they saw them making for the other bank. Then Rutledge took his companion to her home. When he returned he failed to find Eddy and the Root girl and summoned the police.Smith Republican Club Organized at Albany, N. Y.Albany, N. Y., July 4.—(AP)—A
"Smith Republican" club has opened headquarters in this city in the office of William A. Humphrey, a Republican and a close friend of Gov. Smith.Mr. Humphrey announced the purpose of the organization as the winning of independent or Republican votes for the governor. "No campaigning will be made in conjunction with Democratic committees," Mr.
Humphrey said. "We are not interested in the party; we are interested in the man."

ers have declined almost to the vanishing point. This, the report says, is owing solely to the fact that the state's attorney is not now asking for them. "In other words," it is assumed, "it is owing, not to a change in the judgment or judicial conduct of the judges, but in the motions made by the state's attorney. This, of course, corroborates what has been set forth and emphasized above, that the state's attorney and not the judges, is responsible, practically, solely, for all waivers; and whether the numbers are large or small is attributable only to him."

Kerner's Record Praised.
Individual "verdicts" are given in the report upon each of the judges accused. Judge Kerner was given an eloquent tribute in the report, as follows:

"We are of the opinion that the charges against Judge Kerner that he paltered with crime; in other words, was guilty of judicial misconduct, was in no way proved; that, on the contrary, the evidence disclosed that a record of painstaking, industrious judicial service but absolute integrity."

In another portion of the report, where is taken up the charge that the three judges engaged in a conspiracy of silence, the report states that "we desire to make our finding clear and emphatic, that not one word of testimony was offered in any way connecting Judge Kerner with any political activity since or even prior to his ascendancy to the bench."

The Klarkowski Finding.
As to Judge Klarkowski, the finding was:

"Being of the opinion that the power and the right to require waivers is, according to the history of the Criminal courts of Cook county, substantially wholly with the state's attorney, and that whatever discretion the judge has in the court concerning such motions is practically negligible, it follows that the evidence that Judge Klarkowski waived felonies in 143 cases in the first three months in 1928, although an amount above the average and which at first blush may seem startling, yet the evidence before us fails to prove in any definite way any misconduct on the part of Judge Klarkowski."

Evidence Absolutely Falls.
"It fails absolutely to prove, according to the charges of the crime commission, that he 'had no regard for the victims of the murderous criminals to whom' he showed 'such tender mercy.' It fails to show he had 'no regard for decent public opinion.' It fails to show he had 'no regard to the laws which' he was 'sworn to uphold in the protection of peaceable and law abiding citizens; fails to show that he ought not to sit a day longer in the Criminal court; fails to show that 'common decency on his part should make him retire; fails to show that the judges of the Circuit and Superior courts ought to recall him; fails to show he paltered with crime."

"To hold that the crime commission had proved its charges against Judge Klarkowski pertaining to his conduct while actually sitting as a judge would be to ignore entirely the normal requirements of convincing proof and give judgment based solely on rumor, innuendo, hearsay, opinion and popular clamor."

"Every citizen, even a judge, is entitled to justice, measured by the established rules of the law."

Eller Also Vindicated.
After reviewing the testimony of Judge Eller, in which he showed his activity in politics in the 20th ward where he and his father, Morris Eller, are bosses, the report stated:

"Without convincing evidence to the contrary, the report without the testimony of Judge Eller as to what transpired before him and what his practice was, it cannot be said that he has been shown to be blameworthy when, in fact, in every instance of a waiver, the whole authority therefor was that of the state's attorney and not the judge."

"As to the charges made by the crime commission of conspiracy and collusion between Judge Eller and the state's attorney, there was not offered in evidence a single word on that subject."

"All that is said in regard to whether or not there was any political significance in the judicial actions of Judge Eller and that the leniency, if any, that was shown in regard to jury waivers was due to the standing of the defendants or some one pleading in court, there is no persuasive evidence of any kind."

"The findings that we have already announced above as to Judge Klarkowski, as to any political or ulterior influences, are appropriate here."

Figures taken from the court

Loesch Replies to Judges; Cites End of Court Abuses

Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission, who presented the charges against Judges Eller, Kerner and Klarkowski, last night was informed at his summer home in New York state, where he has gone for the holiday, of the report of the judges which repudiated the charges. Mr. Loesch made the following reply:

"I think the crime commission sustained its charges absolutely. Testimony was introduced substantiating the charge that politics played a large part in the waiver of felonies. 'I don't see how judges, knowing life, law and politics as they ought to know them, could have made a report such as they did. It is unfortunate that the judges of our community could not have had the courage to single out even one of their number, and declare to the public that he had not done his sworn, judicial duty.'"

Abuses Now Ended.

"From this the inference is palpable that the three judges were paltering with crime conditions. They were making a joke of the law by altering the true facts of crimes to suit the whims and desires of the judge which the law did not authorize them to do."

records were cited to support the court's finding that the granting of felonies was always followed here, and to the same extent. The average over 25 years is that 22 per cent of all indictments disposed of were by the process of the felony waiver. In the years 1917-1918 the percentage was 48; in 1911-1912 it was 47, and during the eight months ending last April 30, it was 44 per cent. In New York City a study showed the average was 48.5 per cent. Missouri disposed of 80 per cent of indictments by the felony waiver route, the report stated."

As to the state's attorney in past years, the report gave figures for the last years in the terms of Charles S. Denen, whose average was 47.5 per cent, in 1904; John J. Healy, 24.7, in 1908; J. E. W. Wayman, 47.5, in 1912; Macley Hoyne's average ranged over eight years from 26.7 to 48.6 per cent, and State's Attorney Crowe's average has bounced about from a low of 22.3 per cent to a present high for the eight month period ending in April of 44.7 per cent.

Other Waivers Reviewed.

Taking the records of the individual judges, the report disclosed that Judge John J. McGorty, who is not criticized by the crime commission, granted more felony waivers on the average during the court year 1927-1928 than did Judge Eller. The figures showing percentages of felonies waived in indictments disposed of for the judges now acting are as follows:

William V. Brothers, 25.5; Frank D. Comerford, 29.6; Emanuel Eller, 47.8; Otto Kerner, 61.8; Stanley Klarkowski, 54.1; John P. McGorty, 52.1 and Harry B. Miller, 40.1.

Other judges were shown ranging both higher and lower in the last twelve years, the highest being the record of Prosecutor Crowe, who was a judge, in 1913, when his percentage was 97.7. Judge Theodore Brentano in one year had a percentage of 28.6, and in the next, 60.0. Judge John A. Swanson in 1923 had 11.0 per cent, and the previous year, 42.0.

One Element of Criticism.

The report did criticize one feature of the conduct of Judges Eller and Klarkowski, who admitted having held court in their homes and in police stations, and free prisoners on writs of habeas corpus. On this subject the court said:

"As to writs of habeas corpus: While we are bound to recognize the duty, under the law, resting upon a judge to issue a writ of habeas corpus whenever a proper petition is presented to him, we are of the opinion, nevertheless, that no writ of habeas corpus should be issued by a judge except when sitting in his courtroom or chambers, within the regular court hours, save in an exigency and where the circumstances are of such a char-

"The mere fact that it had been done for years did not justify the extravagant extent to which these judges carried it."

"The evidence developed that the state's attorney was using judges for purposes of advancing his own political fortunes. I hold with the law that it is not necessary for a judge to accept the word of a state's attorney as to the disposition of criminal cases, and to permit him without question to waive felonies in hundreds of cases."

Prosecutor Above Judge?

"It makes the judge a scapegoat, which the law never contemplated he should be. It makes the state's attorney greater than the judges; greater than the law."

"If the state's attorney found it necessary to waive so many felonies then it must, or at least it should, have been apparent to the judges that many indictments were being improperly returned. The indictment states the charge upon which the defendant was brought before the bar of justice. If the testimony in all these hundreds of cases did not warrant indictments for felonies then such indictments should not have been voted by the grand juries."

"The waiver of felonies has been condemned in the strongest terms by the New York Court of Appeals in a case taken up on the Baumes habitual criminal law. This court condemned the practice of granting so many felonies, and held that justice had become altogether too lenient."

act as to plainly demand the issuance of the writ."

Urging a revision of the criminal code, the report said:

"The successful prosecution of cases in the Criminal court at the present time, in a community like Chicago, even under the most favorable circumstances is an extremely difficult task. There are inherent weaknesses in our system of criminal procedure that tend greatly to aid the criminal and to obstruct the proper administration of justice."

"Not until a complete revision of our criminal procedure and jurisprudence, including certain constitutional limitations, is effected can we expect to bring about an entirely satisfactory administration of criminal justice."

Discussing the charge the judges conspired to show political favoritism in their judicial conduct, the report says, no evidence whatever was introduced to show that any of the defendants were members of any particular political group, nor was there evidence of any "gang" influence or combination of criminals."

CRIMINAL BAIL VALUES TO GIVE ASSESSORS A TIP

Tax Lists to Be Used Against Gangs.

The Chicago crime commission is to carry its warfare against crime one step farther by instituting a department to compare the values claimed for property for use as bail for criminals and the assessed valuations of the same properties for taxes. George A. Paddock, chairman of the finance committee and a member of the executive committee of the commission, made the announcement yesterday following the appearance of such a comparison in THE TRIBUNE.

Tax Officials to Be Notified.
The commission will notify the assessors and board of review of valuations set by the owners when offering for bail of criminals and point out the discrepancies between this valuation and the tax valuation. It is hoped by this method, Mr. Paddock said, at least to give law abiding citizens without any political pull an even break on taxes with persons who use their property for bail.

"Some of the tax book values are ridiculously low on property scheduled to bail persons indicted by the special grand jury," said Mr. Paddock. "Persons using their property to liberate those charged with crime should be given to understand that they cannot give one valuation for bonding purposes and another to the taxing bodies."

Value $400,000; Tax $5,156.
One of the bondsmen appearing yesterday to give bail for five or six of the indicted 20th ward terrorists was Israel A. Warehauk, 777 Michigan avenue, Wilmette, a dealer in junked automobiles. He scheduled the Alhambra block at State street and Archer avenue, which he said was worth $400,000. However, he scheduled the property for only $300,000. His tax, he swore, was $5,156 on the entire property.

Isadore Mackevick, 640 Aldine avenue, a salvage agent, scheduled property he claimed to be worth $165,000. He paid $795 taxes on it, he said.

NEW YORK POLICE DISPERSE FOES OF "IMPERIALISM"

Attempt a Demonstration
Before Stock Exchange.

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—Sixteen arrests were made today as the result of an "All-American Anti-Imperialist league" demonstration against American intervention in foreign countries. The demonstration flickered and was squelched in front of the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. at Wall and Broad streets.

Placards, denouncing intervention in Nicaragua and China suddenly were unfurled by twenty children at 12:30 o'clock at Nassau and Wall streets. The corner was crowded with thousands of persons out for the lunch hour. At one side a street preacher harangued on evolution and the Bible. With the unfurling of the placards came tumult.

Police Soon Arrive.

Around the placards, which had been distributed quickly to the children by a young woman, sympathizers began to swirl in preparation for a parade or for speeches. It was only a beginning, however, for fourteen detectives of the Wall street and Maiden lane squads and thirty patrolmen of the Old Slip station closed in.

Placards taken from the children were thrown to the street before many could be read and the would-be marchers were ordered from the street.

Dos Passos in Lead.

From the jostling throng emerged John Dos Passos, novelist, climbing to the top of a parked sedan near the astonished street preacher, whose eyes widened when he saw his audience increased several hundred fold. Firm police hands reached up and seized Dos Passos by the shirt. A firm police jerk eased him flat upon the sedan top in a painless fall and he slid off into police arms.

Robert Minor, editor of the Daily Worker, a socialist newspaper, leaped to the top of the car and was pulled down by his feet and arrested.

Harry Gannes, secretary of the All-American Anti-Imperialist league, which sponsored the demonstration, was mournfully telling a group that he had intended to talk, but was afraid he might be arrested when the police arrested him.

Two New Mail and Passenger Airplane Lines Are Planned

Plans for the wedding of two new links in the nation's air transportation system, and which will result directly in broadening the scope of Chicago's air mail and passenger service, were announced today.

One of the announced plans includes the establishment of a new air-rail route from Chicago to the northwest coast by way of St. Paul and Minneapolis. The announcement was made by the chief of the Chicago office of the Transcontinental Air Transport, general manager of the Transcontinental Air Transport, after a conference attended by Col. L. H. Britten of St. Paul, operator of mail planes destination at 6:20 a. m. daily. On the return trip the plane will leave Tulsa at 6:30 p. m.

Announcement of these plans came on the heels of word that Chicago soon will be linked with Macdonald's transatlantic and transpacific service in a seaplane service, to be conducted by the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation company, the headquarters of which is in Detroit. Operation of the new service from the route across Lake Michigan to Chicago, Detroit and Buffalo, will begin on July 1, 1939.

It was said by Arnold A. Schaech, president of the company.

The new line, to be started about Sept. 1, will be operated in conjunction with the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific, and the North Western, and will connect the Chicago and St. Paul with bound trains of the three railroads. From there the passengers will be taken to Chicago by the Chicago and North Western, and an additional air hop is to be provided.

The other announcement was to the effect that the overnight Chicago to Dallas, Texas, mail service will be retained to tomorrow.

The train will meet the through mail plane at Wichita, Kas. and take on board the Tulsa mail, reaching its destination at Chicago about 10:30 a. m.

old friend of the governor, elects to be factions and asks:

"Governor, do you expect to carry the 1st assembly district?"
This is like asking the governor whether he expects the sun to rise tomorrow morning, for the 1st assembly district is the lower east side of New York City, where the celebrated wide-walks of song and story are.

The governor replies, a little wearily: "George, I don't know what would happen if I didn't!"

He'll be in Chicago.
I horn in. Not finding Chicago in the list of fifteen cities which last night's New York papers announced he would speak in this coming autumn, I ask:

"Shall you speak in Chicago?"
"I certainly will."

He is asked what he thinks of the declaration of Gov. Adam McMullen [Rep., Neb.] in this morning's papers that the plank in the Democratic platform on farm relief is "satisfactory," and one which the Republicans should have adopted. Adam, the farmer's friend, also called it "a new declaration of independence for agriculture."

The governor of New York replied:
"If he's satisfied with it I'm sure I am."

Over and over again he is asked where his headquarters will be during the campaign and where the national headquarters will be and where he will make his speech accepting the nomination. Where? Where? Where?

Patience, but with rather ominous
distinctness, he replies:
"I ain't had time to think about that."

He glances quizzically toward George Morris and asks:
"George, what do you think had ought to be done about headquarters?"

"I think they ought to be here—in the Biltmore."

The element of personal convenience is not lacking in this answer. Al knows and says wistfully:
"That's a brilliant idea!"

Then he laughs. George Morris remains unflustered.

The governor resumes:
"There ain't been anything agreed

PIN G. O. P. LABEL ON TEXAS DEMOCRATS IF THEY BOLT AL SMITH

Dallas, Tex., July 2.—(AP)—A movement to read out of the party organization in Texas Democrats who refuse to support Gov. Alfred E. Smith for President was begun today by J. C.
Adams, Democratic national committeeman.

Mr. Adams announced he had requested a meeting of the Democratic state executive committee to place the party machinery solely in the hands
those in sympathy with the Democratic nominees and the platform.

Mr. Adams' statement followed announcements by Thomas B. Love of Dallas, former Democratic national committeeman, and now a candidate for lieutenant governor, and Mrs. Edith Wilkins, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, that they would not support Gov.
Alfred E. Smith of New York for President. Both Love and Mrs. Wilkins are ardent drys.

W. E. Hawkins, another candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, declared that a candidate for public office could "bolt" the national ticket and still not violate his pledge for the state primaries.

The committee declared he had no patience with those who call themselves "Hoover Democrats."

"They might as well use one word and wear the name they really have assumed for themselves and call themselves Republicans," Mr. Adams said.

The only division in Texas in national politics this year will be between the Republican and Democratic parties.
You will find yourself in one camp or the other."

to—about headquarters or anything else—up to this present minute on the 3d of July. There's ain't any news to be got out of the talk you boys hear.
It's all dope. There's nothing been arranged.

"I can't see this place as campaign headquarters or my headquarters. I can't see how it would work out. I can't see us getting anything done around here—so many visitors."

All this makes it look as if the governor's own campaign headquarters would be in Albany, and his campaign front porch would be the front porch of the executive mansion. Also, notification probably will be in Albany.

We ask him when the campaign will open. We ask him whether it may be considered as now opened. Those questions irk him.

"What's the use," he replies, "of starting a campaign on the third of July. That would be a silly idea! No sense to that! I tell you there won't be anything definite decided until the national committee organizes on the eleventh of July. Anything you hear to the contrary is only dope."

His patience is oozing away. He extracts another fresh handkerchief.

Everybody in the room is sweating.
He is asked whether he will see us reporters twice a day, as he did when he last campaigned for governor. His reaction at this question expresses itself.

"Suppose," he says, "I get a chance to take a little ride for myself? I ought to. What's the sense of me starting working hard today, with what I got ahead of me? With twice a day conferences I'll get no ride.
And I need the fresh air."

So it is decided that there shall be until further notice only one news conference daily, and that one at one o'clock in the afternoon.

Thereupon we are with a nod dismissed.

Yes, reader, you have guessed my thought. It was—it was in word and in deed—somewhat different from Calvin Coolidge's conferences with the gentlemen of the press.

We are permitted to scan this day's sheaves of cablegrams and telegrams which Al Smith has received. They come from diplomats, labor leaders, industrial magnates, sports, comedians, singers, jurists, and theatrical managers.

And the Messages.
Charles Schwab, the steel king, wires
from Cresson, Pa.:
"I heartily congratulate you upon your nomination for President of the United States. You deserve every favor that can come to you."

Brand Whitlock, Belgium's friend, cables from Vichy, France: "Heartiest congratulations."

Ed Wynn, the comic, sends this from Larchmont:
"No one doubted your nomination.
Am sure no one doubts your election.
Congratulations."

Babe Ruth becomes oracular and pays telegraph tolls on this:
"Congratulations on the good judgment of the Democratic party. Their selection assures us that public opinion demands a good President."

John McCormack, the ballad singer, cables copiously from London as follows:
"Ten thousand congratulations, my dear governor. The Democratic party has honored itself in honoring you.
Now for victory. The fervent prayer of myself and my family is that God may direct to the White House the outstanding American since Abraham Lincoln, Gov. Alfred E. Smith. God bless you."

Judge Joseph B. David telegraphs from Chicago:
"Sincere congratulations. An extremely happy. Predict your triumphant election."

This one comes from a New York lawyer who wrote a book about Abraham Lincoln as lawyer:
"Congratulations on your stand on prohibition, which must rank you with Grover Cleveland as a fearless, constructive leader. Those whose loyalty is to the best traditions of liberty and individual right as developed among English speaking people will,
I am sure, support you in great numbers and with enthusiasm."

S. O. P. TO THUMP DINNER PAIL AND POINT TO TARIFF

Work Outlines Party's Campaign Program.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Protective tariff is to be the main theme in the Hoover campaign as sketched yesterday by Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee. It was his first extended public analysis of the impending struggle.

Prohibition and the "equalization" phase of farm relief are to fall into secondary place, and as Dr. Work declares the campaign will be largely an old-fashioned thumping of the full dinner pail. Protection of the tariff and purchasing power, both in the cities and on the farms; production of employment, of industries and of farm products, of earning power and buying ability and the American standard of living under the republican protective doctrine—these are the items on which Dr. Work indicated the Hoover-Curtis campaign will throw the stress.

Waves Other Issues Aside.
The wet and dry issue, Dr. Work declares, will bring the Republicans new gains but losses. He says the "country will vote dry," while in the towns it is a "local issue" with mixed sentiment.

As to the corn belt revolt, the new party chairman says the Republicans will not be disturbed. The committee of 22 which is to meet shortly in Des Moines to analyze the rival Democratic and Republican planks, Dr. Work says, is "composed of Democrats all but three, if I am correctly advised."

Chairman Work spent the day at the Drake hotel in informal conference with a string of forty or fifty editors, officeholders, politicians, and business men. He had come from Cedar Island lodge, where he handed to President Coolidge his resignation as secretary of the interior. Last night he departed for Washington, where headquarters were to be opened in Chicago in the next two or three weeks.

Dawes Home; for Hoover.
Coinciding with the visit of the party chairman, Vice President Charles G. Dawes returned from Washington. He said he had parted with his old friend, Frank O. Lowden, for the nomination, and will support the Hoover-Curtis ticket. "If needed I am ready to campaign for the ticket," he said. "Hoover will be elected."

Last night Dr. Work said he had good reports on Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and North Dakota. Senator Gerald Nye, who was with the corn belt at Kansas City, dropped in with word that North Dakota was a red prospect for the Republicans. George Vitis of Manitowish and Mrs. Harry E. Thomas of Sheboygan, the pick of the Wisconsin Regular Republicans for membership on the national committee, reported that in their opinion Hoover would carry Wisconsin.

Calls Situation Healthy.
"The situation is very healthy for our national ticket," said Dr. Work, after his last visit had departed. "The campaign will be waged on the protective tariff and its benefits. It is difficult for me to believe that farmers are in such distress as pictured with steers bringing $18, wool at 35 cents, wheat at $1.47, hogs at high prices and everything the farmers sell bringing good prices. And practically everything he has to sell is protected by the protective tariff."

"Today I talked with forty to fifty political leaders and business men. I was told the manufacturers of agricultural machinery today have a larger output than before, and it is bringing good prices. Evidently the farmers are buying other equipment as well as automobiles."

For Adjustment; No Subsidy.
"There is no doubt an adjustment should be made between the products of labor on the farm and off it. But it cannot be accomplished through subsidies, and in my opinion these are not wanted by the thinking farmers." Dr. Work was asked concerning the prohibition issue.

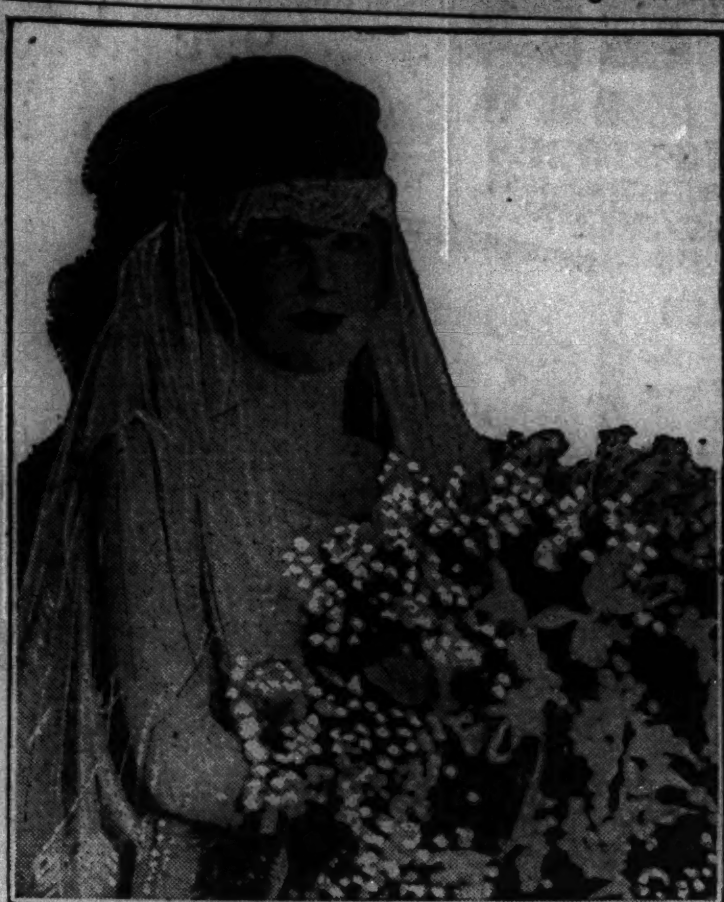

"It was referred to frequently," he said. "Sentiment in the towns is mixed. It's a local question. The country will vote dry all right, for economic reasons if for no other."

"Much of the present prosperity is due to prohibition. Alcohol in a chauffeur and gasoline in an automobile would be an unfortunate combination as to human life."

"On prohibition, the Republicans will gain more than they lose. But the wet and dry question is not enough to determine the presidential election."

"All the men who called today named the Republicans will carry Illinois—all except one, and he was all stirred up. There are many factions, but they are all Republicans, and even satisfied with the ticket. Yesterday I had assurances from Minnesota men that that state would go Republican. Today Wisconsin callers expressed confidence Hoover will carry Wisconsin. Senator Nye said

WELCOME DE MAR TO CHICAGO AVE. POLICE DISTRICT

Flowers covered the desks and tables and overflowed on the floor in the captain's office of the Chicago avenue police station yesterday when Lieut. George DeMar began his duties as temporary captain there with the transfer of Capt. James J. Fleming to the detective bureau.

More than fifty baskets of flowers were received by Lieut. DeMar from business men of the district, and friends. The flowers will be sent to the St. Vincent's orphanage.

Lieut. DeMar, who is 44 years old, has been on the police department for 22 years. He has been detailed to the Chicago avenue station for several years, and has made a reputation by his work against gambling in the district.

Doomed to Become Blind, Janitor Shoots Self to Death
Because his sight was failing and he had been told that he would eventually become blind, Charles Uterroth, 57, of 4258 Cottage Grove, a janitor, yesterday took his life in the basement of an apartment which he tended at 4240 Cottage Grove avenue. He fired a bullet into his head.

Fire Destroys Hangars and 6 Planes; Loss $60,000
Washington, D. C., July 3.—(AP)—Fire today destroyed the hangars and six airplanes at Hoover field, Va., across the Potomac river from Washington. The plant was operated by Henry A. Berliner, who placed his loss at $60,000.

FIND BABY'S BODY IN LAGOON.
The body of a girl baby about 6 months old was found floating yesterday in the Jackson park lagoon. It was unclaimed. The police believe the child was killed by its parents.

CORN BELT RISES TO QUELL CORN BELT UPRISING

Brookhart, Hammill Lead Counter Attack on Peek.

Politics thrilled with a new sensation last night. It came from the farm plank.

Iowa, "out where the tall corn grows," seethed with a corn belt uprising against the original corn belt uprising.

The leader of the new agrarian revolt was Senator Smith W. Brookhart, who uprose against George N. Peek of Chicago, leader in the corn belt revolt that went before the Republicans at Kansas City and the Democrats at Houston.

In the new interior uprising, the hands of Mr. Brookhart were upheld by Gov. John Hammill of Iowa, who in 1925 called the corn belt conference at Des Moines which led to the formation of the "committee of 22," of which Mr. Peek was chairman.

Double Crossing Charged.
Both Hammill and Brookhart pounced on Mr. Peek for his assertion that the Democrats wrote a "new Declaration of Independence" for the farmers. Brookhart accused Peek of "double crossing Lowden in the interests of Dawes." Gov. Hammill said Peek was all wrong in predicting the farmers would vote Democratic this time.

Meanwhile Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, who led for the corn belt minority plank of the embattled farmers on the floor of the Kansas City convention, put out a statement.

It praised the Democratic plank, but did not go so far as the statements issued by Mr. Peek and Adam McMullen, Republican governor of Nebraska, that the Democrats had written a plank "satisfactory" to the farmer.

Lively Corn Belt Conference.
All told it betokens an interesting session when the corn belt conference meets as proposed in Des Moines in the next ten days or so.

Senator Brookhart, who has announced his intention of working for Hoover, in a formal statement charged that Mr. Peek, manipulated the McNary-Haugen bill in an attempt to bring about a movement for Vice-President Charles G. Dawes for the Republican nomination for President.

"George N. Peek," says the Brookhart statement, "is a product of Gov. Hammill's committee of twenty-two. This committee is not a farmers' committee. It is a bankers' committee."

So far as Peek had anything to do with organizing it, the secret purpose was to promote Charles G. Dawes for President. Dawes himself is a great banker, his bank being the Central Trust company of Illinois.

"Peek's brother is a director in this bank and the big packing companies also have directors in this bank."

"Likewise, Mark Woods, about whom we have heard so much, is a director in this same bank."

"They pretended to be for Lowden but double crossed him all of the time with delegates who could be switched to Dawes."

"As the manager of the drafting and passing of the McNary-Haugen bill, Mr. Peek was in no hurry. The bill might have been passed in December. Mr. Peek delayed it until May."

"The bill might have been passed with a seven hundred million dollar appropriation, which even President Coolidge would have signed. Mr. Peek introduced it with only $100,000,000 and insisted without compromise on the equalization fee which he knew the President would veto."

"He wanted it to be vetoed to keep it alive as the principal Dawes issue. He put a clause in the bill for a marketing contract with the packers and requiring the losses to be paid by the farmers in the equalization fee. He made it worth while for bankers and backers at the expense of the farmers."

"With this background he went to Kansas City with a big bluff and got his candidate dropped into the garbage can. Mad to the core, he immediately moved to transfer the farm leadership to Houston."

"The Democratic platform which he calls a declaration of independence is immensely worse than the Republican platform."

"I do know that Peek's personal attack on Secretary Hoover is malicious and false and if the farmer could now get the prices Hoover gave them in the wheat corporation in the food administration they would be prosperous, indeed."

"I stand ready to fight his leadership on any such platform in every agricultural state."

Mr. Peek last night, in answering the Brookhart charges of "manipulation," said they have already been refuted.

"Senator Brookhart has made those same charges against me on the floor of the senate," said Mr. Peek. "They were positively refuted by Senator McNary of Oregon, Senator Watson of Indiana and Senator Gooding of Idaho. That's all the reply necessary for me to make."

Mr. Smith's "analysis" of the farm plank was issued as part of the news service of the Illinois Agricultural association. It reads in part:

"The agricultural plank in the Democratic platform adopted at Houston covers the essentials of a national farm policy more completely than any platform previously adopted by a political party. It fully recognizes the fundamental problem of crop surpluses which farm groups have for years contended must be met by any legislation if it is to be effective and satisfactory."

Authority to Spread Costs.
"It further frankly recognizes the impossibility of effectively controlling surpluses unless there is authority to spread costs of such operation over all the commodity benefited."

"While it pledges the enactment of legislation to prevent the price of surpluses from determining the price of the entire crop and also recognizes the soundness of distributing costs in handling crop surpluses over the commodity benefited, it fails to pledge the party specifically to enact legislation embodying the only device yet proposed or seriously considered by Congress to accomplish that end."

"It does, however, pledge the party to an earnest endeavor to solve this problem, making it a matter of prime and immediate concern of a Democratic administration."

VACATIONISTS BY MILLION SWARM OVER OPEN ROAD

280 Mile Auto Jam 'Twixt Chicago and Detroit.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

Detroit, Mich., July 3.—[Special.]—America appears to have gone awol, suddenly and violently, in the last three days.

Touring authorities here estimate that a million units of travel have joined the swarming procession now crawling along the main east and west highways of the country. These units embrace from two to six persons. The result is that the thorough arteries are overwhelmed with traffic and a large percentage of the eager summer adventurers will suffer and disappointments in their experiences with the so-called "open road."

A survey this week of conditions on the most direct Chicago-Detroit motor route, via South Bend, showed that this federal highway cannot offer an unrestricted right of way for through automobiles for much more than thirty miles—the distance between Elkhart and Coldwater, Mich.

280 Mile Auto Jam.
From Chicago's north side to downtown Detroit, the distance is 311 miles over this route. Two hundred and eighty of it, last week end, despite the two-way boulevard in the Detroit area and the Chicago boulevard system and widened portions of Dunes highway and the widened route in the South Bend district, presented a continuous scene of battle.

Not only did through motorists lose hours of time on that journey, but the attempts of individuals to solve these problems by weaving and in-and-out passing, made the trip a dangerous one over every mile of the narrow road portions of the distance, save the Elkhart-Coldwater section. The Illinois congestion lets up at Elkhart, but the Detroit congestion begins at Coldwater.

At least twenty collisions or wrecks caused by attempts to conquer the congestion occurred Sunday along this line, and the results were visible along the roadways.

Swarm Every Highway.

The outward and visible signs of this great American trek to "some place else" came on as suddenly as a cloud. Driving outward from Chicago among the familiar collection of Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin license tags, there began abruptly to appear the blue of New Jersey, the yellow of Ontario, the green of Michigan, the white of Louisiana, black of Ohio, the New York, the Pennsylvania, and Massachusetts tags, rushing toward the wide open spaces of the west. In the eastward drift were the identities of Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, and Missouri.

First the duff bags, the running board carriers loaded with hand baggage, then the baby cabs as front bumper ornaments, canvas tents in rolls, steamer chairs swaying from humble seat openings, came into range. Before many hours the slow procession resembled the furniture and household goods movement during the evacuation of the villages on the

YANKEES ABROAD HONOR BIRTHDAY OF UNCLE SAM

Fetes in London, Paris, Warsaw Mark July 4.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, July 3.—July 4 will pass quietly for the Americans in London, as only a few functions are scheduled. The American circle of the Lyceum club started the ball rolling with a dinner in honor of the statesman of 1775 last night.

Among the strictly July 4 events is the annual reception at the residence of the American ambassador, at Prince's Gate, where, owing to the absence of American Ambassador Alan B. Houghton, Chargé d'Affaires Ray Atherton will officiate. Other affairs include a luncheon at the American Women's club and a dinner to be given by the American society in London at the Savoy hotel. This will be followed by a ball at Dartmouth house.

Americans in Paris at Banquet.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
PARIS, July 3.—"No man since the war had such a task imposed upon him and no man acquitted himself more splendidly than Mr. Herriot," Ambassador Myron T. Herrick said at the Independence day banquet tonight at the American chamber of commerce.

The ambassador compared the French premier to John Sherman, who took the American finances in hand after the civil war.

"Both countries in their hour of danger needed a strong, unwavering leader, and fortunately both found one," he said.

Warsaw to Celebrate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
WARSAW, Poland, July 3.—Warsaw is preparing to celebrate July 4 in true American style. The city will be decorated with American flags and bunting. The orchestra of the Warsaw garrison will start the day by playing the national airs of Poland and America at a concert before the monument to Robert C. Hooper.

(Copyright, 1928, by the New York Times.)

Marines to Celebrate.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 3.—July 4 will be observed by U. S. marines in all sections of Nicaragua. The Fifth regiment troops will stage a review in Managua. President Diaz, American Minister Charles E. Eberhart, Gen. Frank B. McCoy and Col. Robert H. Dunlap will be present.

Calles Issues July 4 Message.

MEXICO CITY, July 3.—(AP)—President Calles today issued a Fourth of July good will message to Americans. The American colony plans to celebrate Independence day with an old fashioned picnic. Ambassador Morrow is expected to attend.

view park. There will be a football game between the Peoria and Kevin Barry clubs, with a silver cup as a trophy. Other attractions include American and Irish dancing, Irish step dancing and original Irish music. The organization is more than fifty years old.

At Hinsdale the dedication of the newly completed memorial building to the memory of the soldiers and sailors killed in the wars will be held at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Vice President Dawes will take part in the municipal celebration at Evanston today, riding in the parade, and making the Independence day address at its close, from the reviewing stand in Bolwood park. In the evening the usual pyrotechnic display will be staged at Dyche stadium.

Chicago proper will have no central observance of the holiday, although the annual display of fireworks will be held at Navy pier, beginning at 9 o'clock, and beaches and parks are expected to have a record day.

The Chicago postoffice and all its stations will be closed all day today, and there will be no delivery of mail. It was announced by Postmaster Arthur C. Leuder. One collection will be made from all street letter boxes.

Drunkenness Is a Disease!

The Liquor or Drug User Should Be Pitied Rather Than Blamed.
Most persons misunderstand the real reason for alcohol addiction. They say it is due to lack of will power on the part of the drinker, or to downward depravity. But they are wrong.

Alcoholism is as much a disease as any other human illness. It has to be treated as such. Today, with the aid of trained medical experts and the Well-Known Keeley Treatment, total freedom from liquor and drug cravings is obtained.

Wherever could a user of liquor or drugs obtain such freedom from his craving as at the Keeley Institute? Here he is able in a few short and pleasant weeks not only to get rid of his craving for liquor or drugs, but to regain his health and strength of life to do this. In record of time has enabled thousands of men and women in all walks of life to do this. In record of time has enabled thousands of men and women in all walks of life to do this. ## CITY PAY ROLLS STILL UNPRUNED, NEW LISTS SHOW

Protests Fail to Erase "Experts" Names.

Chicago's taxpayers still are paying the salaries of hundreds of so-called experts, inspectors, and investigators whose labor is said to consist chiefly of endorsing and cashing their checks, according to the latest city hall pay rolls, made available to the public yesterday.

The newly-disclosed lists are those for the period ended June 15. They show political jobholders employed by the various committees, the board of local improvements, and the license, boiler inspection, and street departments, with a few exceptions, to be drawing their money as heretofore despite the exposure made since the rolls were ordered made public.

Two Names Withheld. One of the exceptions noted was in the roll of the sidewalk inspection bureau which revealed that the checks of two inspectors, shown to be engaged in private occupations, "have been withheld."

The two inspectors are Dr. Arthur F. Wolford, 7034 Crandon avenue, and Frank E. Renshaw, 628 East 89th place, a switchman for the Illinois Central railroad. Immediately after the Tribune published a report on their activities, the two were temporarily removed from the pay roll. Dr. Wolford was supposed to have received $95 on June 5 and Mr. Renshaw $47 on the same date. Neither check, according to the record, has been paid as yet by the controller.

Twenty-three other sidewalk inspectors, however, were paid as usual during the first half of June. All had perfect records, none being marked absent a single day.

FIELD MUSEUM MAN UNCOVERS 3 ANCIENT CITIES IN HONDURAS

New Orleans, La., July 3.—(P)—Discovery of three ancient Mayan cities in British Honduras with relics of a "distinct and peculiar civilization," was announced last night by John Eric Thompson, archaeologist for the Field Museum of Chicago, who arrived here from Belmopan.

The discovery was followed by five months of excavation which the archaeologist carried on with the aid of native Indians only. Next January Mr. Thompson will return with assistants from Chicago to continue the work, which he estimates will require three years.

Some of the relics obtained were exhibited here, but Mr. Thompson said he surrendered many to the native government as part of an agreement under which he was permitted to explore.

The three cities, he said, are on the west coast near the border of Guatemala.

June rolls was that in Corporation of Cook county's list of investigators. During the April primary Mr. Etelson hired 238 investigators. On June 7 he had only 67.

Council Pay Rolls Unchanged.

Pay rolls of the city council committees remained unchanged, from 5 to 15 special investigators still being paid by the committees on finance, railway terminals, traffic, gas, oil, and electricity, buildings and zoning, and local transportation. The latter committee, although engaged in no investigations as far as can be learned, employs 11 investigators. State Senator Thomas J. Courtney continues to draw $125 a month as attorney for the building and zoning committee.

OPEN BIDS FRIDAY ON COUNTY'S BIG ROAD PROGRAM

Bids for work on the continuation of Cook county's highway program will be opened Friday. The program is "second to none heretofore attempted in Cook county," Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board, declared.

The bids are for the paving of Willow Springs road, Devon avenue, Harlem avenue, Flavin road, Southwest highway, and Dixie highway, and the widening of the River road. During the July meeting of the county board plans will be submitted for the paving of Halsted street, Harrison street in Maywood, Ashland avenue, Wood street, Doe road, Crown Point road, Hillside avenue, 26th street in Chicago Heights, and 28th street in Riverdale.

It is expected that contracts will be let late in July for the building of Milwaukee avenue from Dempster street to the county line; Halsted street from 123d to 167th street, and Lake street, Maywood, to the county line.

TELLS COOLIDGE G. O. P. JOB IS TO PACIFY FARMERS

Ralph Budd Says Hoover Can Hold Northwest.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Superior, Wis., July 3.—(Special.)—Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern railroad, discussed with President Coolidge today the political feeling of the farmers of this section.

That thousands of farmers are disgruntled by their treatment from the party they have always supported is the first fact that the Republicans must face, according to Mr. Budd.

A strong statement by Candidate Hoover as to his sympathy with the farmer's plight, to be reiterated and stressed throughout the campaign, together with the building up of the idea that Mr. Hoover is their friend, who can and will bring about a practical solution of their major problem, crop surpluses, is the strategy suggested by the railroad president. He is a warm admirer of Mr. Hoover and believes that with this kind of campaign Minnesota, the Dakotas and Iowa can be held in the Republican column.

Silent on Campaign.

The President had no comment to make on the visit yesterday of Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the national committee. He will accept the resignation of Dr. Work soon, but it may be a week or two before his successor is named.

As to his reported intention of Mr. Hoover to resign his post in the cabinet before July 15 and to visit the President on the Brule, the President was not able to offer any enlightenment.

Whether the President takes any active part in the campaign or not, the policies and achievements of his administration stand as the chief Republican bulwark, and Mr. Hoover, who is pledged to continue the financial policies, at least, has had the expressed wish and prayer of the President for his success.

Receives Birthday Gifts.

Tomorrow is the President's 59th birthday, and his attention today was not given long to political or other affairs. He returned to his family and the pleasant vacation home that he has established in the forest.

As birthday presents today the President received a new fishing rod, presented by the Boy Scouts of Superior, and a hunting knife given by the Good Fellows club, a boys' organization of Allouez.

Let us not forget the meaning of this day JULY 4th

LIFE, liberty and the pursuit of happiness! We take them for granted in this age, but what sacrifices were made, what hardships were endured, what obstacles were overcome by those undaunted men who made our Independence possible, who laid the foundation and constitution that we might live and prosper in the greatest nation on earth.

In the pursuit of happiness the railroads of this country have contributed much. They have made fast, economical and comfortable communications possible between the East and West, North and South. They have made easily accessible nature's greatest wonderlands and playgrounds.

The Chicago & North Western was the first railroad to operate west of Chicago, the first railroad, with its connections, to operate through trains between Chicago and the Pacific Coast and has been first in the development and installation of every modern improvement to make transportation faster, safer and better. It is proud of the part it has played in the development of the vast territory which it serves. The Chicago & North Western joins with the nation in the observance of this day.

FOURTH OF JULY THIRTY YEARS AGO.

Thirty years ago today the American people had for their Fourth of July celebration the naval victory of Sampson over Cervera's fleet off the harbor of Santiago de Cuba. The battle had been fought the day before when Chicago was without English newspapers because of a stereotypers' strike. Two weeks after the naval victory Santiago was surrendered to the investing American army. May 1 Dewey had won at Manila, and the United States, without knowing it, was on its way, coming out of a shell, although unaware that it had been in one.

It was hardly in American consciousness that it was self-contained in a virtual isolation. It was out in the Pacific at Hawaii and Samoa. Its major territorial expansion, nearly all continental, had been achieved but imperialism was not a word in its politics. It came in hard before the Spanish war was over.

This was a war of small battles and great consequences. It definitely established two ideas, one in the American people that their international policy was one of altruism, one elsewhere that the United States was on the make and must be watched. The people of the United States could justify their belief in themselves by the liberal conduct in Cuba. They didn't let the Philippines go, although the Philippines had been fighting for their freedom before Dewey broke into Manila bay, but that was justified in politically predominant public thought by the benefits extended to the people of the Philippines after they had been subdued by force.

At the same time the world at large observed that a great country which had been busy adding to its continental domain and extending its frontiers had come to another stage and was looking abroad. When Mr. Bryan made anti-imperialism a paramount issue and when the people of the United States were ready to believe that a new international policy had been adopted and that the United States would be encountered from then on in the various grubs at territory undertaken by the powerful nations of the world.

Although Cuba and Porto Rico were freed from European misrule, and although the event might have been regarded as a benevolent application of the Monroe Doctrine, that doctrine has never been in as good repute to the south of us since then. The Panama canal was seen as an unescapable necessity and that further involved the nation. With it the United States had a great trade route, an American route, fortified and guarded, a world door, north and south, east and west. Internationally an empire had arisen to be regarded by other nations as imperialism, whatever it thought of itself. Action in Haiti, San Domingo, Nicaragua, and at times in Mexico followed.

The shells would have been broken, we think, even if the battles of Manila and Santiago had not been fought, although that the country would have been so far extended in the far east may be doubted.

From Appomattox where the seal was set on national unity to Santiago where the flag went abroad was thirty-three years. From Santiago to the American offensive in France was twenty years. In Manila the Americans learned to distrust the purposes of the German monarchy. There, also, the political friendliness of the British effectively laid the ghost of the tradition of hostility between Great Britain and America. Twenty years later the German monarchy had an enemy raised on this continent and the British had found here an allied army.

Without much fighting the Spanish war was a consequential war to the American people.

OLD FORT DEARBORN.

Every one is agreed that one of the principal attractions of the city's centennial celebration in 1933 is to be a reproduction of old Fort Dearborn. Unfortunately, the original site is not available for the reconstruction, but a site near by in Grant park at Randolph street is available.

The reproduction should be made permanent, for it is well for a community to know the beginnings from which it grew. A few families have a few articles of furniture which were here a hundred years ago, but the city as a whole has, so far as we know, no inheritance from its earliest days. We have no buildings which have outlived a hundred years of corporate existence. Earliest Chicago was built on what has since become the most valuable real estate in the city. Most, if not all, of the buildings of a century ago were of wood. Any of them which might have survived the weather and the taxes could not have survived the fire.

The older cities—New York, Philadelphia, Charleston, New Orleans, Boston, and the mission towns of the west and south—have their reminders of their earliest days. Chicago has been ruthless in its destruction of what little it has to recall its beginnings. Bond avenue, named for the first governor, is gone, and with it South Water street, a name which was given to their principal street by the first settlers.

A replica of Fort Dearborn will add no beauty to the city. The buildings within the little stockade were mean even by contemporary standards. The replica of the old fort will suggest the hardships undergone by the pioneers who might have remained at ease in the older settlements but chose to seek their fortunes where prospects were brighter. They chose wisely, as the skyscrapers in the background will testify, Chicago needs a sense of its past as a reminder of its greater destiny and of the courage which makes for achievement.

LONDON POLICE IN TROUBLE.

London police methods in protecting public decorum in Hyde Park have been under criticism of late and a general questioning of procedure has resulted. Gen. Sir William Horwood, the chief commissioner of police, has resigned and Home Secretary Joynson-Hicks has announced the appointment of Viscount Byng of Vimy as his successor. Byng was the governor general of Canada who stood the dominion on its ear by asserting prerogatives of office which Canadians deny to it. If he is to be the blunt old soldier with the police it may be still more interesting. The faults charged against the London force are familiar to American critics of American methods, being chiefly irregularities in the procuring of evidence. The best known case was that of Sir Leo Money, who was accused of public misconduct. The young woman in the case, it was charged, had been treated roughly, at least talked to roughly, by the police in an effort to make her a satisfactory witness. As an American third degree it probably was something which would be regarded as too mild for a second thought, but it made a great stir in England. Moreover, the suspicion arose that the police in handling questions of public morals were engaged in other questionable practices. The result has been a weakening of the policeman's value in court.

One strong factor in British justice has been the accepted position of the policeman in the witness stand. He was a credible witness and his word was good. This is an immeasurable advantage in law enforcement. It is one of which the American courts have very little. To a considerable extent American policemen have destroyed the value of evidence procured by them. Jurors frequently are hostile and the unpleasant relation in which the policeman so often stands with the public is revealed by the prejudiced attention of juries to police testimony. The British have been accustomed to regard the police witness as a truthful, impersonal, and unprejudiced enforcer of the law. He was not in uniform to give an offender the worst of it but to serve impartial justice. If the London policeman is losing that character in the opinion of juries even, as it is said, of judges, British justice may learn something of the embarrassments which so often impede American justice. Matters of public morality, decorum, and vice always have been boggy spots for the police and we regard such conditions as prevail in London as the worst possible for police integrity.

AS TO THE NORTH DAKOTA
REFERENDUM.

Final figures on the prohibition referendum in North Dakota are not at hand, but we estimate that about 180,000 votes were cast. The vote to repeal liquor by about 5,000 votes.

In other words, the people of North Dakota are nearly evenly divided on the prohibition question. Yet North Dakota has had a longer experience with this experiment than any other state save Maine and Kansas.

It seems to us that any one not a one-track crank or a professional dry reformer with an economic stake in prohibitionism might meditate profitably, apropos of the North Dakota referendum, upon the mischievous folly of one-half of a community trying to impose upon the other half a system of discipline and a code of private conduct which that other half does not accept as necessary, expedient or justifiable.

A great deal of shallow twaddle has been talked by prohibitionists about majority rule. In matters of mere administration and government, as in the election of officials, in matters of merely political or economic character, as in ordinary legislation and policy, majority rule is the convenient and practical method. But in matters of fundamental character, such as constitutional legislation, the majority rule was not adopted by the nation at its birth nor by the states. Here a higher requirement was wisely adopted, and even this higher test, as the unfortunate case of the eighteenth amendment demonstrates, has not proved strict enough.

For there is a higher test still and that lies or should lie in the intelligence of our people and in their grasp of the principles of free government. That should teach them that it is both foolish and mischievous to invade the private conscience and try to impose upon it a rule of conduct in private habit which lacks the approval and support of less than an overwhelming proportion of the whole people. Organized prohibition is so conscious of this lack of support that it repeatedly refuses to submit prohibition even to the test of majority rule.

Editorial of the Day

LETTING A BISHOP DICTATE.

[New York World.]

Gov. Dan Moody of Texas took the platform. "Obedient to dictates of my own conscience and so instructed by my state, I have advocated a plank pledging my party to a faithful and vigorous enforcement," he declared. "The majority plank has the approval of Josephus Daniels, Bishop Cannon of the Methodist church, and other bishops. There will therefore be no minority report." Mr. James Cannon as a private citizen has a perfect right to express approval or disapproval of the prohibition plank. But "Bishop Cannon of the Methodist church" has no place in politics and should be kept out of them. When the Texas governor quotes the bishop's approval—when, as the World's Herald dispatch puts it, he cites the bishop, Carter Glass, and Josephus Daniels, and announces "that because of them he would accept the majority plank"—then we see a church officer interfering with government in an entirely improper way. Mr. Cannon's opinion is of importance only because he claims to represent the Methodist Episcopal church south. When his approval or disapproval sways men at Houston it is because of an implied threat of the use of Methodist church strength. He and Gov. Moody and their like are putting the Methodist church into government, and every right-minded American should resent the attempt.

What if some delegate had arisen at Houston and said that upon consulting the American cardinals on this or that plank he had received a "plumb obstat"? Yet in essence how much does Gov. Moody's statement differ from this? When any sect, Catholic or Jewish, Presbyterian or Methodist, interferes in politics, for the sake alike of a healthy religion and a healthy state the functionaries responsible deserve a prompt and memorable rebuke.

THE UNION DERBY.

READERS will recall that the recent long distance race conducted by Messrs. Fyris and Grange was dubbed "The Union Derby" by newspapers. The name suited the people. With it we have no quarrel. But if any one infers from the name that the contenders developed bunions we do want to have something to say to the contrary. According to a newspaper story, a physician who has had an opportunity to observe the race will make a report on the physical condition of the contestants. Most reports on athletic contests, particularly endurance contests, have stressed the effect on the heart and kidneys of the participants. I hope the forthcoming report will include a section on the feet. I have an idea that such a report will show no bunions and comparatively little foot trouble.

In the first place, men with bunions do not try to walk from California to New York. A union is the final stage in a process which began with a poor mechanical arrangement of the bones at the ball of the foot. The unusual cause is a something which pushes the bones widely apart in this area where bones lying parallel and close together is a necessity. A spraddled ball is the fundamental requirement for bunions. Men with this ailment do not enter California to New York contests any more than do men with developed bunions.

I very much doubt whether the contestants suffered greatly from corns. A corn is a localized thickening of the skin. My guess is that those contestants who hung on long developed thick and fairly uniform callus on their feet. Such callus is a protection to the nerves and the underlying tissue. Being uniform, it seldom causes soreness.

One way of getting relief from corns is to develop a thick and uniform callus. This is especially true of the sole. Doubtless many of the contestants had callus and rubbed places. Some of these raw places doubtless became infected. It is possible that some quit the contest because of such "galled places." It is probable that some of them had corns. In the legs and, for this reason, had to quit. This condition was an expression of fatigue and was somewhat akin to writer's cramp. On the other hand, it is probable that some of them suffered from fallen arches. Doubtless the contestants had well developed calf and foot muscles, and in these circumstances, fallen arch is not likely to develop.

BATHING CHILD OFTEN.

J. M. S. writes: 1. Is it very important that a child bathe three times a week? She perspires very freely.

2. Is salt water bathing perfectly safe for a child of 3?

REPLY.

1. It is not vitally necessary but it makes her more attractive.

2. Yes.

TRENCH MOUTH AND CURE.

M. M. writes: 1. What is trench mouth?

2. What are the symptoms, cause and cure?

3. Is it tonsillitis or diphtheria?

REPLY.

1. An infection of the interior of the mouth.

2. Soreness of the cheeks, lips, gums and throat. As a rule there are ulcers. There is pain and sometimes some fever. Cleanliness is a preventive and a cure. Brushing the teeth with a tooth paste of baking soda is recommended by Dr. Reasoner.

Cleanliness plus washing with boracic acid will cure most cases.

3. Neither.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

READ BEFORE YOU SIGN.

Chicago, June 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I went to see about a correspondence course, but told the agent that I would not sign for it until I had talked the matter over with my lawyer. He told me to take along a book and leave a deposit with him. This I did. I also signed a paper which I thought was a receipt for the book. My husband and I decided to sign the correspondence course. Now, the company tells me I signed a contract and threaten to sue me.

1. Do you think I can be held liable?

2. If I am compelled to pay must they be satisfied with my payments?

3. I was working at the time, but am not now employed. Can they hold my husband's salary for this? Mrs. H. B.

4. Ordinarily, an adult who is able to read is presumed to have read a contract which he signs. It would require very specific testimony as to misrepresentation as to the nature of the instrument and virtually interfering with your reader.

5. No.

6. Depends upon whether the payments can be regarded as a family expense. We incline to the opinion that they are.

TRIBUTE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BILLS IN WISCONSIN.

La Crosse, Wis., June 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please tell me how many years before a bill is outlawed in the state of Wisconsin.

1. Does it make any difference if several payments have been made on the bill several years ago?

2. Can a court action be taken against me if the bill is paid several years old?

3. Can a man's wages be garnished for this bill?

Mrs. J. F.

1. Six years on oral contracts, 10 years on written contracts.

2. Yes. The statute would run from the last payment.

3. See preceding answers.

TRIBUTE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TO EXAMINE BROTHER'S WILL.

Chicago, June 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My brother died six years ago. Just his wife and I survive him. He has always told me he would never forget me in his will. How could I find out if he made any provision for me in the will?

1. Could I break the will and get my share? He died in Illinois. Mrs. A. B.

2. I inquire at the office of the clerk of the Probate court in the county in which he resided at the time of his death.

3. In order to break the will you would have to show undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity.

TRIBUTE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

JULY 4, anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, has become the greatest day of the year on the sporting calendar. Sport and sportsmanship have a right to claim Independence Day. Whatever criticism, if merited, attaches to athletic spectacles on Memorial Day cannot hold for July 4. Signers of that Declaration of Independence brought into being a democracy. Democracy is the foundation of sport. Neither wealth nor social position can give preference or favor. Every one has a sporting chance. Success is based upon the prowess or aptitude of the individual, or the group of individuals composing a team.

If we may carry the comparison farther, the essentials of a democracy are the essentials of clean sport. What is sportsmanship except self-control, discipline, playing the game according to the rules, and loyalty? Every one of these qualities we expect to find in all good citizens.

JULY 4 AND HOMESICK.
As I strolled along the quay one day
Upon a foreign shore,
I watched a ship about to sail
For the old U. S. once more.
As I saw the Stars and Stripes unfurl,
I mused with tear-dimmed eye,
"If I could sail on that ship today,
I'd be home on the Fourth of July."

OUR HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SECOND ANNUAL REPORT

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S
COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 4, 1863.

WASHINGTON.—An official dispatch on the battle at Gettysburg from Maj. Gen. Meade, dated Headquarters, Army of the Potomac, 11 p. m., July 2, says: "The enemy attacked me about 4 p. m. today and after one of the severest contests of the war was repulsed at all points. We have suffered considerably in killed and wounded. Among the dead are Brig. Gen. Paul and Gen. Zook and among the wounded Gen. Sickles, Barlow, Graham, and Warren, slightly. We have taken a large number of prisoners." A later dispatch from Gen. Meade, dated 8 a. m., July 3, says the battle began again at early daylight on various parts of the line. It continues: "The enemy has thus far made no impression upon my position. All accounts agree in placing their whole army in agreement with the number engaged was much injured yesterday and had many officers killed."

PHILADELPHIA.—The Press has a special, dated Hanover, 1 p. m., July 3. It says at 10 o'clock this forenoon our forces opened fire on 5,000 rebels who managed to hold its ground, the battlefield for the purpose of pillaging the dead.

BATTLEFIELD IN SIGHT OF GETTYSBURG.

July 2.—Yesterday's battle was as hotly a contested fight in proportion to the number engaged as the war has yet furnished. Practically the fight was between the 1st army corps, on our side, and Ewell's corps of rebels, with two of Hill's divisions. Our troops had advanced through the town of Gettysburg and nearly a mile to the other side when they met the enemy in position. Meritt's brigade of Wadsworth's division charged the rebels and routed them, taking one rebel regiment prisoners. Doubleday's and Robinson's divisions then came up and completed our line. At 3 p. m. the rebels came up in heavy force, the bulk of their two corps attacking our one. The 1st corps managed to hold its ground, however, until the 11th corps arrived and got into position, but we were still outnumbered. The rebels pressed on our right until by sheer superiority they turned our flanks, and by an overwhelming force forced the 11th corps to break, and it retired through the town in some disorder. Following this the 1st corps was forced to retire through the town, and it did so in good order.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 4, 1898.

[Because of a strike of stereotypes no Tribune or any other English language daily newspaper was issued in Chicago on July 4, 1898.]

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 4, 1918.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE.—A heavy German counter attack against the American positions at Vaux was repulsed, the enemy being very heavily hurt. Not a foot of ground was won by the Americans in their attack on July 1 was lost. In some cases during the German attack whole companies were allowed to approach close to the American lines, then the American machine gunners, from their hidden nests, let loose a perfect hail of bullets, mowing down the enemy ranks and plugging the dead all over the ground. The German loss is unknown.

WASHINGTON.—The United States will celebrate Independence day at launching between sunrise and sunset more ships than Germany's submarines can destroy in many days at the present rate of their undersea piracy. One hundred ships—perhaps more—approximately half a million tons of dead weight tonnage—are expected to slip from the ways. In other ways the day will be celebrated as never before in history. Exercises will be held in France, Great Britain, Italy, and other lands. President Wilson will deliver an address at the tomb of Washington, which will be read simultaneously at demonstrations throughout the country.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Helen W. Afield, wife of C. E. Afield, died at the home of her son, C. E. Afield Jr., in Evanston at the age of 72. She was a teacher in Chicago schools from 1864 to 1869, and was one of the first leaders in the suffrage movement, having been a friend of Susan E. Anthony.

'YES, WE HAVE NO PROFITS,' IN SONG BOOK OF UTILITIES

Even Sing Praises for Interest, U. S. Finds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., July 3.—[Special.]—Amusing public utility propaganda methods in Wisconsin were disclosed today, when the federal trade commission resumed its investigation of "power trust" educational activities. During the examination of John M. Cuddy, secretary of the Wisconsin Utilities Association, there was produced a little booklet that shows Wisconsin utilities have gone those in other states one better by teaching their employees to "sing it with songs." The booklet of "seventy-five songs for public utility meetings," contains portions of the state's utilities set to the music of "Sweet Adeline," "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "Yes, We Have No Bananas," and other popular songs.

Familiar Air Chosen.
One ditty, which the booklet suggests should be sung at conventions or banquets, to the tune of "Yes, We Have No Bananas," goes as follows: Yes, we have no excess profits, No overgrown surplus today; We're interest unceasing and taxes increasing, And all of the help to pay; We have an old fashioned commission That holds rates down with precision, But yes, we have no excess profits, No overgrown surplus today. Another adopting the melody of "Keep the Home Fires Burning," advertising housewives to: Keep the gas fires burning And the meters turning For the B. T. U.'s are right They always are. Cooking, heating, baking, A million products making, Perfect fuel, the best control All you want at par.

Surveys Textbooks.
Engineering fellowships are maintained by the utilities association at the University of Wisconsin, according to Mr. Cuddy, who testified that his organization conducted surveys of the text books used in Wisconsin public schools, furnished material for textbook authors, and had inspired the delivery of more than 900 addresses on utility subjects to an aggregate audience of 175,000 persons in the last year. A financial report of the Wisconsin organization disclosed that in the year ended May 1 last, $33,511 was spent. "We pay the money to the board of regents of the university," declared Cuddy. "We attach no strings whatever to its disposition."

CHIANG, AT BIER OF SUN, PLEDGES CHINA'S REVIVAL

Seeks Foreign Aid in Rebuilding Nation.
BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
PEKING, July 3.—Chiang Kai-shek, Nationalist generalissimo, who arrived in Peking today, went at once to the "Temple in the Clouds" on the western hills, where he paid homage at the bier of Dr. Sun Yat-sen. He took up his quarters later in the temple compound. His bodyguard of 1,500 soldiers encamped in the summer palace. The Tribune correspondent, who visited Chiang this afternoon, found the way unobstructed except by numerous callers. Chiang merely reiterated, but in modified form, his policy for the reconstruction of China. He intimated he entertained a friendly rather than a hostile feeling regarding foreigners. He said foreign cooperation in China's new task is more important than foreign hostility.

Seeks Aid of Powers.
The Tribune correspondent was accompanied by Dr. P. W. Kuo, graduate of the University of Wooster and of Columbia University, who has been formally named director of the foreign office pending the official recasting of foreign diplomatic relations. Dr. Kuo is director of the Chinese institute in America and has been temporarily loaned for this service. Both Dr. Kuo and Gen. Chiang stressed the fact that now that victory in the long civil war had been won, it would be their policy to secure the cooperation of the leading powers, since China is entering a second, even greater phase of the campaign to remake the nation.

Will Meet Diplomats.
Gen. Chiang Kai-shek will attend a dinner Thursday given by Gov. Yen Hsi-shan to the diplomatic corps. He will probably pay official calls at all legations Friday. There is perfect order in Peking. The newly arrived troops do not interfere in any respect, even making way for traffic.

Doctor Held on Charge of Violating Drug Law
Dr. Paul V. Joyce, 302 South Ashland boulevard, connected with the police ambulance service for 15 years, was held in bonds of $1,500 by United States Commissioner James R. Glass yesterday on a charge of violation of the Harrison Anti-Narcotic act. H. B. Burt, federal narcotic agent, testified that he bought 26 grains of cocaine from the physician for $10. The arrest was made on information of Charles Powers who had been taken into custody by the agents on Monday. Powers told the agents he had been obtaining narcotics from Dr. Joyce for the last nine years.

GERMANY PLEADS
FOR FINAL FIXING
OF ITS WAR DEBTNew Socialist Chancellor
Outlines Policies.BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
(Chicago Tribune From Service.)

BERLIN, July 3.—Germany is ready for the final discussion of her full reparation debts, her new Socialist chancellor, Hermann Mueller, announced in the Reichstag this afternoon in a speech outlining the program of his cabinet. Composed of Socialists, Catholics, German People's party members, and Democrats, it represents a full majority of the newly elected Reichstag.

"The Dawes plan has been carried out for almost four years and has prepared the ground for a definite settlement," Chancellor Mueller stated. "The exact date of the final settlement remains vague, but matters have progressed so far that all serious concerns are convinced that a definite debt settlement is not only desirable, but also possible."

"All depends on reciprocal good will. Since economic methods must be applied. A minimum standard of living for the German people must be kept up. Germany will not fail to give her loyal cooperation to bring about a discussion which is of the utmost importance to the whole world's economics."

Endorses Stresemann Policies.

Though Chancellor Mueller is a socialist, the program he outlined coincides with that of his predecessor, Dr. Wilhelm Marx, a centrist. This illustrates clearly the stability of conditions in present day Germany. He demands full recognition of the republican form of government, even in the shape of a holiday in August to commemorate the proclamation of the Weimar constitution.

"We will give up all thought of revenge," he said. "This is the foundation of our policy, and starting from this standpoint we shall endeavor to recover for Germany the same rights that other nations have."

Asks Liberation of Rhineland.

As long as foreign troops are on her soil, Germany is not a free country, said the socialist chancellor, as have all his predecessors, called for the liberation of the occupied Rhineland and Saar basin. "The logical consequence of the Locarno reconciliation policy of just years."

"Only a year and a half separate us," he declared, "from the day when, according to the Versailles treaty, the second time will be evacuated. The Rhineland will wait patiently. We need not appeal to her patriotism. But in matters of drift until the prescribed date means missing the great opportunity of turning speeches about reconciliation into tangible facts prepared by the Locarno and other treaties."

Chancellor Mueller calls for disarmament and announces that Germany will file a new disarmament motion at the meeting of the league of nations in September.

"Germany was the first to accept the offer of the United States for a pact for the outlawry of war without restriction. She will continue her work for a peace guarantee on the broadest possible basis."

POLISH FINANCE
ON SOLID BASIS,
DUE TO U. S. HELPTaxes Low; Industries
Find Markets.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune From Service.]
WARSAW, July 3.—Poland is the one country in Europe where America and Americans are still really popular, for the Poles realize that America by her system of loans and by her aid rendered through Charles Dawes, financial adviser to the Polish government and in effect financial dictator of the country, has saved their country from bankruptcy.

Poland's currency which at the beginning was a joke, is now as stable as any in Europe. Even when the old mark was wiped out and the zloty established as the unit, the fluctuations were so violent and frequent that the American dollar became the standard of value in the country.

At that time the zloty was worth anything from one cent up. Now it is stabilized at about eleven cents and possesses the confidence of the people who are no longer afraid to save it or invest it as they were in the days of inflation.

National Debt Small.

Poland like most of the new countries set up after the great war had the advantage of starting without a national debt and whatever she has now is incurred for constructive purposes. Calculated in zlotys every Pole today owes seventy-two against 4,042 owed by every Englishman and 1,019 by every American. Included in the Polish national debt is the American stabilization loan of $35,000,000, which has been used solely to support the currency.

Taxation in Poland is lower than in neighboring countries which gives an advantage to Polish industries in competing in the world market, although they had much to overcome in the disorganization of their trade which followed the setting up of the new state. For instance the Silesian coal fields and iron manufactures were part of the German economic system. The textile industries of Lodz and Kalisz were based on the Russian market and the oil industries of Galicia were in the Austrian economic orbit.

Industries Gain New Prosperity.

The closing of the German frontiers by high tariffs, the disappearance of Russia as a consumer, and the break up of the Austrian empire completely disorganized these great industries but Polish determination backed by state cooperation has brought them new and greater prosperity.

Lodz has now found new markets for its textiles in the Balkans, the Baltic states and the far east. Silesian coal is being exported to Scandinavia, Italy, Belgium and other markets which were once held by Britain.

FRANCE THROWS
NEW WRENCH IN
U. S. PEACE PLAN

(Chicago Tribune From Service.)

LONDON, July 3.—A special protocol as an annex to Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg's multilateral treaty to outlaw war, interpreting the special rights and obligations of signatories of the league of nations covenant and the Locarno treaties, as well as the so-called French treaties of neutrality, is understood to be the latest wrench thrown into Secretary Kellogg's machinery by the French government, which is sounding out the attitude of the Locarno signers, particularly Great Britain.

It is believed here that the French are anxious not to offend the American sponsors, but yet feel the necessity of emphasizing the fact that nothing in Secretary Kellogg's pact could be allowed to weaken or otherwise affect preexisting rights and obligations.

SAY U. S. EXCELS OR EQUALS ALL IN FIGHTING PLANES

Army and Navy Officials
See but Two Defects.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., July 3.—(Special.)—Flying aircraft piloted by American army and navy aviators equal and in many classes exceed the best military equipment produced by other nations of the world, high army and navy officials asserted today. It was admitted, however, by some of them that other nations have developed better observation planes and flying boats.

None of the officials would admit that any other power had developed better purely fighting planes than have been manufactured in this country. It was asserted that this government leads the world in production of fast pursuit, attack, and heavy bombing planes.

"Our air equipment is at least ahead of any in the world in quality, and I speak with deliberate conviction, believing no nation can claim a definite superiority in aircraft design and construction," said Edward P. Warner, assistant secretary of the navy for aviation. Mr. Warner leaves tomorrow for Europe, where he will study foreign aircraft development.

"There are no better pursuit or attack planes produced than the planes of the navy for aviation. Mr. Warner leaves tomorrow for Europe, where he will study foreign aircraft development.

"In speed, climb, weight carrying, and cruising radius, the requisites of successful military and naval aircraft, our airplanes are equal to or better than those of any navy in the world," Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, stated in describing the naval outfit.

The three officials declined to make detailed comparisons of American aircraft with the air equipment of any particular power, but admitted they had followed with interest reports of the exploits of the British royal air force in its annual pageant at Hendon on June 30.

"The United States navy has more airplanes built for purely naval purposes than any other navy," said Mr. Warner. "I believe we have a better two seater fighting plane than is possessed by any other nation. This machine is one of the most useful and strongest fighting machines manufactured. It can make 170 miles an hour, and we could build planes of this type to travel 200 miles an hour if we wished to sacrifice strength and equipment."

Lack Flying Boats.

"In the bombing, scouting, and torpedo attack, the flying boat has the edge of late. We have not made such good progress in the flying boat, a type in which we once excelled. Steps are being taken, however, to remedy this deficiency."

Mr. Warner was of the opinion that this country had advanced further than other nations in the use of aircraft with the fleet. He spoke especially of the fact that all American fighting vessels were now equipped with aircraft. Mention was also made of the notable success this government has won in developing the catapult for launching ships from warships.

"Our greatest need today is aircraft carrying ships," Mr. Warner said in conclusion.

"Our aircraft specially designed to the mission to which they are assigned have a very high performance," Admiral Moffett stated. "Many engineering triumphs have been coordinated to produce these planes, however. The adoption of air cooled engines for all service types has been the greatest single factor in the fine performance. Material reduction of weight, ease of maintenance and ability to operate in any climate have resulted from this change."

"Of the twenty-one airplane world records held by the United States, seventeen were established by the navy. These records cover every phase of aviation."

Praise Pursuit Equipment.

Army officials spoke enthusiastically of the fighting efficiency of their pursuit, attack, and bombing planes. New pursuit planes soon to be placed in the army's aerial forces will make 215 miles an hour, it was stated. Bombing planes ordered for immediate use will be veritable flying fortresses, armed with six machine guns and 3,000 pounds of bombs. New attack planes, described as the finest in the world, travel at the rate of 150 miles an hour loaded with bombs and equipped with machine guns.

"This country has made remarkable progress in the development of the attack plane," Mr. Davison said. "Each of these new planes is equipped with six machine guns and can carry 250 pounds of bombs in addition to 1,500 rounds of machine gun ammunition. We will be able to produce machines with greater speed than any now in the army when experiments now in progress are completed. These new engines will be of both water and air cooled types."

Elmer Reads Their Lives in the Radio

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

On an evening as complex as modern synopses of the world, first, the young but great contralto of tomorrow, Miss Faye Cume, for the second time from W-G-N, 730 to 8, 1 cannot comprehend from experience how a girl still in her teens can possess so mature a voice, or even with that voice, how she can depict so much of mental depth and vocal finish. Hers is a strong, pleasing, commanding voice, and her sustained, legato tones are such as to lead one to infer she possesses that other requisite for professional success, a good strong physical constitution.

The hand concert from the New York university campus, through KTW, 730 to 815, had a classic beginning with Beethoven, this portion including the "Egmont" overture, the second and fourth movements of the Fifth symphony, and an arrangement of the piano composition, "A Country Dance."

Through a change in the program due to a copyright restriction clause, the band played the fifth act of "Faust," complete, the various vocal parts being taken by solo instrumentalists.

Nat. Shilkret led his orchestra through a riot of modern synopses during the weekly 8 to 9 broadcast through W-G-N. The Hall Johnson singers were more incidental entertainment this week. There were portions of Grose's "Mississippi" suite, rollicking numbers for two pianos, also Gershwin's barnyard managerie circus, the "Rhapsody in Blue."

A program by the double male quartet of the Russian Holy Trinity cathedral, W-G-N, 10:30 to 11, was one of the rare events. They sang three selections from the Russian church liturgy, and three popular Russian songs. None but Russians can sing as Russians can, with their marvelous organ-toned voices. A complete Russian church musical program would meet with wide approval.

CAPT. NAUGHTON, POLICE VETERAN AND ADVISER, DIES

Capt. John J. Naughton, known for years as the "unofficial legal adviser" to the Chicago police department, died yesterday at St. Ann's hospital following an operation for acute appendicitis. Capt. Naughton was 46 years old and the father of seven children. He lived with his family at 1258 North Parkside avenue. At his bedside when the end came were his wife, Mrs. Mae Naughton, all their children, and the captain's aged mother, Mrs. Nora Naughton.

Just three weeks ago Capt. Naughton was assigned, upon the death of Capt. Michael J. Gallery, to command at North Robey street station.

Capt. Naughton joined the police force in 1906 when he was 22 years old, and soon after was assigned as a clerk at the city hall headquarters. He was private secretary to every police chief from the regime of John P. McWeeny through that of Acting Chief John H. Alcock. He became a sergeant in 1915, a lieutenant in 1917 and a captain in 1921. He found time to take a law course at De Paul university. Though he preferred police work, he was years an aide in the department when some legal technicality arose.

Other children who survive are: Ernest, 23; John, 20; Joseph, 17; Elizabeth, 14; Geraldine, 10; Patrick, 6; and Margaret, 4. Funeral arrangements were not completed last night.

OFFICIAL COUNT MUST DETERMINE BALLOON WINNER

Detroit, Mich., July 3.—(AP)—Calculation of air line distances by the National Aeronautical association, which will determine the winner of the 1928 James Gordon Bennett International balloon race, it was announced late today at race headquarters here.

With all twelve bags which started in the race reported safely landed, a re-check of unofficial figures on distances traveled by the three leaders showed that they had finished within a mile of one another, figured on an air line basis from the starting point.

The revised unofficial figures gave the race to the United States Air balloon, with the French balloon Blanche, second, and the German bag, Barmen, third.

The last of the twelve bags accounted for was the German balloon Munster, reported today as having landed at 11 p. m. Sunday, in the top of a dead tree on the eastern slope of the Blue Ridge mountains, 55 miles from Lynchburg.

REPORT MORROW CARRIES U. S. PLAN FOR MEXICO DEBT

Arrives Back at Post After Vacation.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
MEXICO CITY, July 3.—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow reached Mexico City tonight from his vacation in the United States. His train, which had passed through the rebel infested districts of the Mexican states without incident, was heavily guarded by fifty federal soldiers armed with machine guns.

It is stated in banking circles that Mr. Morrow brings to Mexico a proposition from New York bankers for a complete readjustment of the payment of the debt of the international debt. The plan of the bankers is the result of information and interviews by Ambassador Morrow with President Calles and the Mexican minister of finance.

Mr. Morrow went into the Mexican financial situation thoroughly and in detail with a view to finding a solution to Mexico's financial difficulties which will conform with conditions suitable to the banking interests controlling Mexico's international debts.

It was pointed out today by the manager of one of the largest Mexican banking interests that Mexico just met the interest on the foreign debt, although the financial situation here is the most difficult in ten years.

Received with Military Honors.
MONTEREY, Mexico, July 3.—(AP)—Dwight W. Morrow, American ambassador to Mexico, was received today with full military honors as his train, carrying him back from a visit to the United States, passed through this city.

Gen. Pedro Almazan, military commander of the state of Nuevo Leon, and many high Mexican officials as well as members of the United States consulate, greeted Mr. Morrow at the station. Troops were lined up at salute while military bands played the Mexican and American national anthems.

Addresses General in Spanish.
The American ambassador delighted the Mexicans by using a few Spanish phrases in his conversation with Gen. Almazan. Mr. Morrow's desire to speak Spanish, even if only a few words, has always been one of the things nearest to all the Mexicans that he meets.

Discussing the recent good-will flight from Mexico to the United States by Capt. Carranza, Mr. Morrow compared it with the similar good-will flight of Col. Lindbergh from Washington to Mexico City.

Give Them Happy Thoughts in Their Bedtime Prayers

As it was not possible to include in the Sunday article all the bedtime prayers I wanted to print, I am giving some today. Where a prayer seems long a child may learn it very slowly—one stanza a month, or even a year. With very little children, especially, the evening prayer should be so simple and so short that the children learn it easily, so that, having mastered its words, they can think of its meaning.

The following can be used as a song, as well as a prayer. The music to it is in Mrs. Cummings' "Folk Songs and Dances for the Happy Evening Clubs."

"The sun has set, and the stars grow bright,
And over the fields fast falls the night,
Like a fairy wrapped in a mist of dew,
WHA God's gift of sleep for me and you.

"God sends us night, and He sends day, too;
He is always thinking of me and you,
Wherever we are in the world so wide,
Though we cannot see Him, He is by our side.

"So we'll go to sleep without a fear,
For God is watching His children dear,
While the moon comes out, and the stars shine down,
God loves His children in country and town."

Here is the old one with a new ending:
"Now I lay me down to sleep—
I pray the Lord my soul to keep.
When in the morning light I wake Lead thou my feet that I may take
The path of love for thy dear sake.
Amen."

Although the following has one or two words that a very little child would not understand, it has a quiet beauty which makes up for that:
"Gentle Jesus, meek and mild,
Look upon a little child.
Pity my simplicity,
Suffer me to come to thee.
Amen."

Of the one beginning, "Jesus, gentle Shepherd," I think the last two lines should be omitted, as they convey the feeling that the child must be kept safe from darkness as if it were a danger. Leaving those out makes a beautiful prayer for a very tiny child:
"Jesus, Gentle Shepherd, hear me, Bless thy little lamb tonight."

Here is another for an almost-baby:
"Jesus, friend of little children,
Be a friend to me,
Take my hand and ever keep me
Close to thee."

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

The Peanut.

We have outgrown a good deal of the Yankee-doodiness of our most national celebration but we do cling to some of it when we use the peanut generously—and pick up the shells or never scatter them to make a more cluttered and messy country—and have lemonade to drink.

Peanut brittle is a good summer sweet and the best peanuts for it are the raw Spanish, but others will do and perhaps some people will do best with them. Make by this formula: Two and one-half cups granulated sugar, two-thirds of a cup of cold water, one-half cup corn syrup, two tablespoons of butter, one-half pound of raw shelled Spanish peanuts, one teaspoon of baking soda dissolved in one tablespoon of cold water.

Put the water and sugar together and let stand until with a little stirring the sugar will be entirely dissolved before it is put to cook, add the corn syrup and stir over the fire until the whole boils, and then cook until a little dropped in cold water is brittle, but it is best to use a candy thermometer and cook this to 270 degrees.

Then add the butter and peanuts and stir until the peanuts are cooked as they soon will be or in ten minutes at 270 degrees. Then add the dissolved soda and stir vigorously. When the mixture is through foaming, turn it out in a thin sheet on an oiled platter or something of the sort. Using a spatula pull it out in as thin a sheet as possible, or it can be pulled into nice pieces before it sets or cools.

Cooked peanut brittle is quickly made. Melt a cup of sugar in a thick bottomed frying pan stirring all the time until it has melted and slightly caramelized, then pour this over half a cup of peanut meats—halves spread out in a single layer. Or have the peanuts chopped fine and spread caramelized sugar over and then cut in bars. It is difficult to stir the nuts into the syrup but it can be done.

To make peanut sandwiches shell freshly roasted peanuts and rub off the brown skins from the meats, and then chop the meats. Moisten the chopped nut meats with cream and use as a dainty sandwich filling.

Jane lives with her uncle and aunt. He is going to get a pair of roller skates, she told her nearest neighbor. "O, Mrs. W. said, 'has your Aunt Nan said you could have skates?'"
"Well, no," Jane replied. "Aunt Nan said I was too little, but Uncle Jack said, 'O, I guess she's big enough.'"

Sanity to Be Society's Guide in Observance of Independence Day

BY THALIA

Sanity, it seems, is sacrificing all the good old hallelujah of the Fourth of July in favor of sanity, for of all the events arranged by the country clubs hereabouts for the holiday program, only Exmoor, out in Highland Park, is making provision for a fireworks display. I shouldn't imagine that, however, would prevent every small boy or girl who can lay hands on sparklers, torpedoes, or firecrackers from making a small private exhibition of his own fireworks.

Exmoor finishes off the day of men's golf events with a picnic supper for its members, followed by the pyrotechnic display. Glen View Golf club is having a golf tournament morning and afternoon and a dinner dance this evening, and the Chicago Golf club at Wheaton is having its regular Independence Day golf event. Indian Hill has special golf events and a dinner dance this evening which will be attended by the Raymond E. Durhams, the Fletcher Durhams, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell S. Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Copeland, William C. Boyden Jr., the Mark W. Cresaps, and their respective parties of guests.

Knollwood Country club is having an unusually attractive program with an historic pageant ride in 1776 costumes at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon, the outfit to be judged by Mrs. Thomas E. Wilson, Mrs. Fred A. Poor, and Mrs. Nathan William MacChesney. There are golf and tennis events and a dinner dance tonight under a circus tent top which is all decorated with red, white, and blue streamers, balloons, and what not. Mr. and Mrs. Lucius E. Teter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Ewing, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. David Owen, the Thomas E. Wilsons and the Fred Pears are having parties.

Other Fourth of July events include the annual children's horse show at the Padlocks, the Austin H. Niblack show on Old Mill road, Lake Forest, at 10:30 o'clock this morning, unless it rains, when it will be postponed until Sunday. The children composing the committee include John King, Bess Blair, Anthony Ryerson, Jean Schweppe, Bunney Cushing, and Gwendolyn Bowen.

There is to be a polo match between the Onwentsia and the Oakbrook Country teams at the Onwentsia field this afternoon, with Mrs. Billy Mitchell Blair acting as hostess at tea in the pavilion after the game. And Mrs. Howard Linn is giving a large and swanky dinner party at Shore acres this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin S. Smith of 1333 Dearborn parkway are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son on Monday morning at St. Luke's hospital. The Smiths, both of whom are young, created quite a bit of excitement a little more than a year ago when they eloped. Mrs. Smith was Miss Jeannette Reynolds. The baby is to be named Calvin Smith Jr. Mrs. Giacomo M. Benello (Rosemary Lytton) and her infant son are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lytton at their Highland Park residence.

George W. Dixon with his daughter, Marion, and his son, George Jr., departed yesterday for Mackinac to spend the week with Mr. and Mrs. William W. Dixon, the Homer L. Dixons and their children, also at Mackinac, so it sounds more or less like the Dixon clan loves.

Two pairs of honeymooners, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Wilson Jr. (Raymond Warren), who postponed their wedding trip to be in the Scott-Keppel wedding last Saturday, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Wilson (May Lake) are among the Chicago passengers on the steamship Leviathan sailing today from New York City for Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Lamson of Hubbard Woods and their daughters, Miss Elizabeth, Miss Virginia, and Miss Jean Lamson and their guests, Miss Anna Hardy of Boston, are departing on Saturday for Sunlight ranch, near Cody, Wyo., for a stay of six weeks.

Mrs. S. Ella Wood Dean, who has been in New York City for several weeks, will sail on Saturday for Europe with the Drama League.

Miss Margaret Russell arrived Monday from Charleston, S.C., for a short visit with the Robert Hunters of Lake Forest. On Friday she will depart for Eaton's ranch in Wyoming, accompanied by Miss Carol Cummings and Miss Margaret Stevens. They plan to be gone about month.

Miss Clara L. Lake is departing this week for Montreal, where she will work for Europe on Friday the 13th. She will return in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Wells of 20 Cedar street, who have been abroad for three months, have returned to Chicago. They are taking a house in Glenview for the summer.

Mrs. Julia T. Bayne of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Washington, D.C., is spending a few weeks at the Ambassador prior to starting for Duluth for her annual visit with her son, Reed Bayne. Mrs. Bayne's recollections, by the way, go back to the time when she and her two brothers were playmates of Abraham Lincoln's children. Her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Bayne, were intimate friends of the Lincolns.

Mrs. John E. Byrnes was, before her recent marriage, Miss Eleanor E. Lee of 7408 Sheridan road, Evanston. She is head of the real estate bureau of the board of education. They will reside at 2107 East 72d place.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 3.—(Special.)—Secretary Mellon, who spent the week-end with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David K. E. Gruse, at their place on Long Island, will pass the summer in Europe, sailing July 12 to join his son, Paul.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover gave a tea this afternoon to the Women's National Press club, receiving them in the gardens at the side and back of the Hoover mansion on S street. She had with her Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of and hostess for Senator Curtis, Secretary Hoover's running mate, and Mrs. Clyde Kelly, wife of the representative from Pennsylvania who did the honors of the beautifully appointed and well laden tea table.

Mrs. Henry W. Fitch of Detroit, and her daughter, Mrs. Stephen C. Bowen, have gone for a motor trip to Cooperstown, N. Y., and late in the month they will sail for California via the Panama canal.

Former American Ambassador to France and Mrs. Hugh C. Wallace, the latter a daughter of the late Chief Justice Fuller, formerly of Chicago, will go to New York tomorrow morning and sail Friday for a summer in Europe.

Mrs. Martha Harrison Williams has gone to spend the Fourth with friends in Springfield, Mass., after having been in Washington for two months. She will make a visit in Vermont and then go to Omaha, Neb., to join her three young daughters and her mother, Mrs. Russell B. Harrison.

Colored Shantung for the Tennis Game

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—Courtly manners in dress do not change much—not when they are tennis court. Still we see the simple little sleeveless frock in linen or crepe de chine or some other equally practical material representing the best taste of the Amazon of the racket. And still the approved tone is white. Yet we should not become ritualistic about this sort of attire. There are other fabrics excellent for the violent sport besides the crepe and linen so often chosen. For example, there is the shantung family. These weaves, so cool and so easily laundered, stretch always an excellent choice, yet it is to be feared that they are forgotten in an undue emphasis on other materials.

Then about the matter of color. There is really a good reason why the champion of the courts should go forth like Sir Galahad dressed all in snowy white, not when we have blues and greens and yellows and pinks to choose from. In the class of today's tennis model both of these alternatives are represented. The material chosen is shantung and the color is a soft rose.

With these two facts as a basis, the designer has proceeded to obtain the most original effect from that hackneyed duo, plaits and bands. The most ingenious feature of the latter is the method by which they develop into two plaits at both sides—assurance for all the room needed by the most strenuous devotee of the game.

FARM AND GARDEN BY FRANK RIDGWAY

Gully washing rains have carried thousands of tons of soil from the farms of the Mississippi valley during the last few months. Illinois, Missouri, and Indiana have all lost heavily. Losing rich soil is like taking dollars out of a farmer's savings account.

The heavy washing of soil this season has shown farmers the necessity of doing something to stop such losses suffered especially on sloping fields. There is a practical way of checking this waste.

Hoover of the state agricultural college says twenty times as much plant food as is needed for a single crop is washed away by soil erosion into the Mississippi river every year from many counties of Illinois. If that is an average figure the loss in many sections of the central west hit by the recent heavy rains must be far more than twenty times the amount of plant food used annually by the crops grown on the land.

Building what is known as the Mangum terrace is Hoover's suggestion of the best way to prevent the runoff that is taking place on about 5,500,000 acres of Illinois farm land. The Mangum terrace with its broad base does not interfere with farm operation. The average cost of terracing is $2 an acre, and most of this expense is for labor.

Farmers who want to know how to save their soils by the use of the Mangum terrace should write to G. F. Hoover, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Request for Small Ice Box.

"Would you be able to find anything in the way of an old ice box for me? The very smallest kind would do. We are using a tub in which to keep the ice we buy on warm days and it melts so quickly, it does us little good. And do you think you could get a dress for me, size 40?"

"N. P."

This request comes from a dear old lady who lives with her sister in one of Chicago's poor districts.

Doris Urges Girls Not to Finance Their Finances

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The traveling man who a few days ago delivered himself of the verdict that all a woman marries for is money had better keep under cover for awhile. There's an army of indignant waitresses awaiting his appearance. One of them voices the opinion that he must be traveling for a feather foundry, since no occupation heavier than that could be qualify for.

Mary says: "Take the case of my sister, talented in every way, making a wonderful salary, with $3,000 saved. She worked hard for that money. She married a man who had nothing but bills. She took her money and paid his debts. Now what she has for not marrying for money are four kids, a poor home and a husband who dislikes work but loves to hang around the house."

This raises another issue: the folly of letting a man marry for your money. Any woman who marries a debt-ridden young man who will let her pay off his obligations for him doesn't deserve what she gets. She must expect that she is bartering for happiness in a losing game.

This subject of women's earnings and savings being accepted in the name of love has come up in this department before. And I have been startled at the opinions of men. Perhaps not your kind of man, nor mine—nevertheless, there are members of the opposite sex who are educated to think that all is fair in love, even to taking the hard earned money of a fiancée.

And the complaints that have reached my ears about failure to recognize these debts as honorable obligations to be honorably discharged, to put it mildly, appalling. Just the other day a "heartbroken" one saw her trusted fiancée's engagement announced to a rich girl. He found one who could better support him in the style to which he'd like to be accustomed. Heartbroken's thousand dollar help was completely ignored.

One of the modern appropriations I should sternly advise the modern female not to appropriate is the right to finance a fiancé or mate. Because the genius honorable wouldn't let a woman do it. Therefore, it must follow that the other is the genius dishonorable. And from dishonor you can expect nothing but shame, disappointment, neglect, and ingratitude.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address: Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscript returned.

Answering Duty's Call.

Mine occurred on a street car. I had had a difficult day, and tiring of my newspaper, began to doze. Presently I was conscious of the sound of a buzzer. Instantly I was on my feet, saying, and none too quietly, "Yes, Mr. J."

The other riders gaped in amazement. How could they know that the buzzers on the cars had the identical sound that my boss's did? U. J. C.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Inadvisable. "Dear Miss Blake: A fellow calls me up every day at the office and although I have never seen him, asks me to go out with him. Would it be proper?" FRANK.

There are several reasons why it would be inadvisable. You know very little, if anything, about him and it's unwise to mix business and pleasure.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

(Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.
This becoming dress is an economical as well as a smart one, and easy to make. The front of the waist is cut in two sections, and the back in one, and there is a draped jabot cut in one with the right front. The two pieces circular skirt is attached to the long waisted bodice in the new irregular outline. Printed silk crepe, flat silk crepe, figured chiffon, georgette crepe and Canton faille crepe are chic materials.

The pattern, 3302, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 34, 36, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards of 40 inch material.

Mr. and Mrs. George Barr McCutcheon of the Barclay started today for Asheville, N. C., where they will be at Grove Park Inn for the summer. Justice and Mrs. Norman S. Dike are at the Women's National Golf and Tennis club, Glen Head, L. I., until July 15, when they will depart for the H. P. Bar ranch in Wyoming, to remain until the middle of September.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
J. G.: GAMES THAT REQUIRE stretching, such as basketball and tennis, are advised for increasing the height, although there is no guarantee that they will give satisfactory results. Very often height is a matter of hereditary influence.

O. R. K.: EXTREME NERVOUSNESS is often the cause of excessive sweating of the hands and feet, in which event the system must be toned up before local measures will help. Cold baths are good for steadying the nerves, and brisk walks in the fresh air. Dust the hands and feet with boracic acid powder.

BIDDING FOR NEW PICKLE PLANT

BY AL CHASE.

One of the largest pickle factories in the world is scheduled for the north side as a result of the Budington Pickle Company buying 85,000 square feet of land yesterday for an undisclosed consideration. The site is on the west side of Marcy street, and extends north to a point forty feet south of Clifton street. This site fronts 1,350 feet on Marcy street.

Plans for the new factory have been prepared and work is expected to start shortly, according to J. H. Van Vliet, president of the company, who represented all parties in the site purchase. The properties bought were secured from the Smith, Barnes & Strober Company, and the Public Jointly Firebrick Company.

Outgoing Present Plant.

William A. Schaefer, president, and Albert Goetz, treasurer of the firebrick concern, represented it in the sale negotiations. The Smith, Barnes & Strober Co., represented the interests in the deal.

The Budington Pickle Company purchased the new site because it had outgrown its present plant at West North avenue and Sheffield avenue, which is one of the largest factories of its kind in the country. Track construction to serve the new site already is under way.

Michigan and 57th Street Sold.

The nineteen apartment building at the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and 57th street, lot 103x170, has been sold by the Capital Trust Company, trustee, to Minnie T. Payne for an undisclosed consideration.

The three apartment building at 4517 West Jackson boulevard was sold by Ernest Kreiman to Jacob Plotky for a reported $25,000, subject to $18,000.

Charles B. Goodman and Sidney Nierman were attorneys.

VOLATILE ISSUES

SPURT ON ACTIVE BUYING ON CURB

New York, July 3.—(AP)—Active buying developed on the curb market after a dull opening today in response to a drop in the call money rate to 5 per cent.

The improvement in the money situation came before any general pre-holiday liquidation got under way.

Such volatile issues as Singer and Tubis spurted up 30 and 40 points, respectively, later after a drop of 10 points. Bananilla lost 4 points, then rebounded for a net gain of 2 points, closing at 113. Bendix "B," aided by reports of improved earnings, was carried up 15 points, touching a new high of 127. Diverse made a net gain of 11 points. Other industrials making good gains were Bullard Machine Tool, Columbia Graphophone, Niles, Bement, Pond & Fox Theater.

Spanish and General rights touched a new high price at 64 on heavy buying, influenced by reports that American interests are negotiating for the concern.

U. S. Gypsum made a gain of 3/4 on earnings. Importers' profits, auto. Mobilio Bottling was strong on reports of record sales.

Renewed activity developed in the utility group, United Light and Power A. gaining 14 points under heavy selling. Paine, Webber & Co. reported on reports of a pending merger with American Power and Light. Electric Bond and Share and United Gas Improvement made gains of about 2 points, and Mohawk Valley reached its previous high at 71 as progress was reported in the consolidation with the Phillips interests. American Light and Traction was an exception, losing 4 1/2 points on small trading.

Checker Cab was again a feature in the automotive group, touching a new high at 34 1/2. With the exception of Safeway, which jumped 14 points on small sales, and Melville Shoe, chain stores were weak. Sanitary Groceries dropped 5 1/2.

Mines were active, Noranda touching a new top at 50 and Newmont gaining 4 1/2. Oils were generally neglected, although Darby, Humble and Vacuum made gains of about 2 points each.

Woolworth President Sees Better Trade Ahead

New York, July 3.—(Special).—Before calling for a three months' business and pleasure trip to Europe and the continent, H. T. Fawcett, president of F. W. Woolworth company, expressed himself today as decidedly optimistic on the outlook for retail trade over the remainder of 1928.

The outlook is for continued good retail business, he said, and he does not expect to see politics have any deterring effect on trade. I look for full business to be relatively much better than spring trade, though that season was good.

Eastern Telegraph and Marconi Merger Is Near

LONDON, July 3.—(AP)—Negotiations for amalgamation of the Marconi and Eastern telegraph companies are reported to be coming to a head and an announcement is expected shortly. It is understood that the negotiations include the government owned Imperial radio.

There have been rumors in London for some time of a possible merger of existing cable and wireless companies to take over from the various governments of the British empire the present system of Imperial communications.

Cerro de Pasco Copper Raises Dividend Rate

New York, July 3.—(AP)—Directors of Cerro de Pasco Copper corporation today increased the annual dividend rate from $4 to $5 a share with a quarterly payment of $1.25 a share, payable Aug. 1 to holders of record July 15. The company is regarded as the lowest cost copper producer in the world.

Capital stock of the Equitable Casualty and Surety company, 119 shares, was placed on an annual dividend basis of 10 per cent with an initial quarterly payment of 2 1/2 per cent on Aug. 15 to holders of record Aug. 1.

ON FOREIGN BOURSES.

LONDON, July 3.—(AP)—Bar silver, 27 1/2 per ounce. Money, 2 1/2 per cent. Discount, 3 1/2 per cent. 3 months, 3 1/2 per cent.

PARIS, July 3.—(AP)—Trading was dull and prices were near the bureau today. Three per cent. rent, 7 1/2 francs 50 centimes. Five per cent. rent, 12 francs 50 centimes. Exchange on London, 124 francs 20 centimes. The dollar was quoted at 23 francs 40 centimes.
